Greatest Conflict.

"Pa, what is reciprocity?" asked the boy from school at the dinner table, as he passed his plate for a second helping of the semi-weekly cut of roast beef. "Reciprocity," said the father, as he sliced the gravied portion, "is the business that's going to bring meat down to a price where we can afford to have it oftener than twice a week. It's the thing that's going to take the customs tax off a good many things we have to buy and will make living cheaper all round in this country where butter and eggs are a luxury on our tables." "Then why do Mr. McBride and Mr. Barnard oppose it?" naively asked the boy. "Spose it's 'cause they're only politicians instead of statesmen," growled the sad father.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND.

Charlottetown Patriot.
The deep sea fisheries of Prince Edward Island are in an undeveloped state. Our waters are teeming with cod, haddock, hake and herring which are not being utilized, owing to the lack of a profitable market. With the great sweeping away of the duties by the United States, if accepted by the people of Canada, as it surely will be, a new era of prosperity will open to the fishermen of Prince Edward Island. The herring that approach our coast waters in the spring time will be utilized. Curing establishments will spring up in the centres where these fish abound. They will be cured in brine, smoked, kippered and canned. The fishermen will supply the fish; the farmer the wood for smoking them, the manufacturer of lumber, the shoos for making the boxes, and the sons and daughters of our fishermen will find profitable employment in the curing rooms. The cod, haddock, and hake fishery will undergo a great development. Fish curing, canning, and packing establishments will spring up in the chief centres furnishing a profitable market for the fisherman and lucrative employment for his sons and daughters. The cargoes of our transportation steamers will be the cured product of the sea; not the sons and daughters of our fishermen seeking employment in foreign lands.

CRACKS PARTY LINES.

Report in Toronto Globe.
The feature of the Liberal convention of Halifax, which nominated Hon. A. K. Maclean and Dr. Edward Blackadder as government candidates, was the strong speech in favor of reciprocity by Howard Smith, head of N. & M. Smith, Limited, the largest exporters of dried fish in the world. Mr. Smith appeared in the Liberal convention for the first time in his life, but he said this was an occasion when the issue before the people was above party. In the last campaign Mr. Smith was one of the most active and most influential supporters of Messrs. Borden and Crosby. This time he is throwing his whole support on the side of the Liberals, because he realizes that reciprocity means a new era of prosperity. Under the new order, he declared, Nova Scotia will come into her own, and her fishing fleet will be doubled in from three to five years.

FAIR REASONING.

Toronto Globe.
H. T. Bush, president of the Standard Ideal Co., Port Hope, an employer of six hundred men, said: "I appear as a manufacturer in favor of reciprocity." He had declared that if the manufacturer and the government gives them reasonable protection, they in turn, to be fair, should help to give the farmers what they believe will be in their best interest, for whatever is for the farmers' benefit is likewise for the manufacturers' interest. The manufacturers cannot succeed unless the farmers are doing well. He counselled all present to have courage to step out and declare in favor of reciprocity, regardless of former political affiliations.

TOLD IN CONFIDENCE.

Winnipeg Dispatch.
Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 14.—A prominent banker of the Weyburn district, who has been a life-long Conservative, and never misses taking a hand in the campaign, his last being in the constituency where the Hon. James A. Calder was defeated at the last Saskatchewan elections, is in the city, and stated to personal friends today that from the outlook, to him, he did not think any anti-reciprocity candidate in Saskatchewan would be able to save his deposit.

THUMBS UP.

Calgary Albertan.
When Sir John A. Macdonald asked some of the present opponents of reciprocity to yell for reciprocity they nearly yelled their heads off. When Borden asks them to yell against it, they proceed to yell. Most accurate dating, huh, aren't they?

DR. KING TO RUN IN KOOTENAY

SELECTED AT LIBERAL CONVENTION AT NELSON

W. Sloan Will Not Be Candidate for Nomination for Comox-Atlin

Nelson, B. C., Aug. 19.—"King for Kootenay" will be the slogan of the Kootenay Liberals in the coming campaign.

An enthusiastic convention held here yesterday afternoon, at which every section of the district was well represented, over one hundred delegates being in attendance, nominated Dr. J. H. King as their standard-bearer unanimously. The nomination was moved by M. A. MacDonald, of Cranbrook, and seconded by D. A. McRae, of Revelstoke. Never before has Nelson witnessed so enthusiastic and unanimous a convention. Senator Bostock presided. The whole time occupied in the proceedings did not exceed 10 minutes. The following resolution was also adopted amid hearty applause:

"We, the Liberals of Kootenay riding in convention assembled, take this opportunity of placing on record our unqualified approval of the policy of the Liberal government, under the leadership of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, which has resulted in the building of a greater Canada, and we heartily endorse his policy in regard to the reciprocity pact, which will tend to still further advance the general welfare of the people of Canada and of the Empire."

Reciprocity is the main issue in this campaign, as elsewhere throughout the Dominion, and it promises to be a winning issue. It has been very gratifying to note the large number of erstwhile Conservatives who have announced their intention of supporting the Liberal candidate in this campaign. In Dr. King the Liberals of Kootenay have an exceptionally strong candidate. He represented the Cranbrook riding in the Provincial legislature for several years and earned the sincere regard and respect of every elector during his term of office. He established a record of fair dealing and unflinching attention to the needs of his district which will stand him in good stead on this occasion. M. A. MacDonald, the eloquent young lawyer of Cranbrook, will be Dr. King's chief lieutenant in this fight, and will prove a tower of strength.

The East Kootenay section of the riding will give Dr. Young an overwhelming majority, more than sufficient to overcome any majority Good-evil, the Tory and Anti-Reciprocity candidate may secure, although Good-evil's strength in West Kootenay is largely problematical.

Kootenay Liberals enter the fight with an exceptionally strong candidate, a good campaign committee and the enthusiastic endorsement of a very large element of the electorate. They have a big adverse majority to overcome, but with so strong a candidate they have no fear of result.

A. S. Goodevil has been nominated by the Conservatives.

Nanaimo, Aug. 19.—William Sloan announced through the Herald this morning that after mature deliberation he has decided not to be a candidate for nomination at the Comox-Atlin Liberal convention which meets in Nanaimo to-day. Mr. Sloan will convey this decision personally to the convention. Delegates from all parts of the district are now in the city. The nomination lies between Duncan Ross, Hazelton, and Judge W. B. McInnes, Vancouver.

Kamloops, Aug. 19.—Martin Burrell has been nominated by the Conservatives of Yale-Cariboo.

Halifax, Aug. 18.—Kings County Conservatives nominated A. E. Dewey to oppose Sir Frederick Borden. N. B. McCurdy of Halifax was nominated by the Conservatives of Queens-Shelbourne to oppose Hon. W. S. Fielding.

Man and Woman Meet Death When Auto Plunges From Bridge Into River.

Montreal, Aug. 19.—Two persons were killed and two others badly injured at Rosemere, 20 miles from Montreal, when an auto carrying the four passengers skidded off the wooden bridge over the River Jesu. The dead are Joseph Gorman, an ex-mayor of the municipality of Outremont, and a woman whose name is not known. Joseph Egan of Montreal and a woman, name unknown, were injured.

G. T. P. OFFICIALS ON TOUR.

Port Arthur, Ont., Aug. 19.—A. W. Smithers of London, England, chairman of the board of directors of the Grand Trunk Pacific, Chas. M. Hays, president, and other officials of the company arrived in the Hamilton yesterday and later left for Winnipeg on a special train. With them were James Playfair, president of the Northern Navigation Co., H. H. Gildersleeve, general manager and other navigation officials, but these did not go west.

A VERY PERTINENT QUESTION

PERTURBED TORY PARTY—My dear man, don't you understand that if this suicidal, disloyal, Empire-wrecking reciprocity agreement is endorsed your wages will fall automatically?
UNPERTURBED WORKINGMAN—I say, did you ever hear of my wages rising automatically?

TRYING TO END RAILWAY STRIKE

EMPLOYEES TO MEET HON. LLOYD GEORGE

Principal Companies Run the Trains Under Protection of Troops and Police

London, Aug. 19.—The chief railway companies of England are living up to their promises to maintain restricted train service under the protection of soldiers and the police. Trains were running this morning on all lines, although in greatly reduced numbers.

A fair percentage of the men remained loyal, while a large number of applications for work were made by outsiders. Even some of the Union men continued at their duties, being reluctant to strike while negotiations for a settlement were proceeding. A few local unions adopted resolutions not to strike until some decision had been arrived at between the government leaders and the railway managers.

David Lloyd George, chancellor of the exchequer, has not taken charge of the situation for the government, and through the good offices of James Ramsay MacDonald, M. P., chairman of the Labor party, succeeded in inducing the officials of the Irish and Scottish, as well as the English unions, to meet him at noon to-day. He was assisted by John Burns, president of the local government, and as both Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Burns are known as sympathizers with the unions, and have the confidence of the railway managers, the prospects for an early settlement seemed brighter to-day. Some of the most ardent supporters of the men expressed the opinion that the strike would not last more than a few days.

Spasmodic riots on a small scale continued at scattered points throughout the country, but London remained calm. The railway centres were closely picketed by representatives of the unions, but these were prevented by the soldiers and police from having any intercourse with the men at work.

The railway stations had a deserted appearance during the forenoon, most of the porters being out. Few persons attempted to travel, and the usual rush was confined to those lines operating suburban services. Freight was moved in small quantities from the stations under armed escorts, and more important still, London's supply of milk, most of which comes in over the Great Western and the London North Western roads, was not appreciably reduced.

The curtailment of train service, affecting as it does the working classes, helped to make the strike unpopular with those not directly concerned. The workers are suffering much more than others, as all the roads had been compelled to discontinue the usual cheap fares to the workmen, and the inability of the latter to get to their work has created in some cases a hostile feeling towards the unions. This result-

TWO MEN KILLED IN STRIKE RIOT

Soldiers Open Fire on Mob of Strikers at Llanelly, Wales

Llanelly, Wales, Aug. 19.—Four rioters were shot down by troops this afternoon, two being instantly killed and the other two mortally wounded.

This part of Wales has been the scene of exceptional violence since the railway strike was declared. There has been a succession of conflicts with the police.

To-day a mob attempted to stop an incoming train and the police were unable to disperse the angry throng. The Riot Act was read by a magistrate, but it had no effect. The strikers continued their attack on the train and mounted the locomotive.

A military officer discharged his revolver in the air, but still the mob refused to quit.

Finally the troops who had been stationed in the vicinity to protect the depot and other railroad property, were ordered to shoot. They fired three volleys. At this the mob broke and fled, leaving four men stretched on the ground. Two were dead when picked up and the others were dying.

PORTUGAL'S NEW CONSTITUTION SIGNED

Demonstration in Lisbon When National Assembly Completes Work

Lisbon, Aug. 19.—The National Assembly completed and signed to-day the constitution of the Republic of Portugal.

The legislation outlined by the cabinet several weeks ago and since decided by the elected representatives of the people, was adopted amid enthusiasm. Great crowds surrounded the building where the assembly met and waited for hours for the expected announcement.

When this was received there was joyful demonstrations.

COST OF LIVING TO BE INVESTIGATED

CITY COUNCIL TAKES MOST POPULAR STEP

Two Commissioners Appointed to Carry Out the Work and Collect Data

Mayor Morley's very timely and valuable suggestion that an inquiry be undertaken into the high cost of living in Victoria was adopted by the city council last evening, despite some criticism and objection, and as commissioners to give effect to the council's desire for information, H. J. Pullen and John Dean were appointed to investigate existing conditions, collect data, and make a report to the city council.

When the matter was brought up Ald. Morley expressed the opinion that the council should wait until after election to see if reciprocity carried.

Mayor Morley—Yes, that would perhaps be all right, but we want someone to do this work who is entirely unconnected with politics.

"It looks like politics to me," remarked Ald. H. M. Fullerton. Then once more Ald. Morley endeavored to convince his colleagues that the present was not the time nor the council chamber the place for such a discussion. To his mind it was a question altogether too big for the city council, and he did not intend to have anything to do with it.

Ald. W. F. Fullerton volunteered to explain the whole situation to his fellow aldermen but the others did not think he could spare the time.

Mayor Morley, in taking up the cudgels on behalf of the idea, pointed to Toronto where such an investigation had been carried out and by means of which the very best results had been obtained. He did not at all agree with the view that once the report was submitted to them they would not be able to do anything with it. In any case he thought no possible harm could be derived from such an investigation. They ought surely to interest themselves in finding out whether citizens were being over-charged for their foodstuffs by the trusts or monopolies. He also cited an example of what is daily taking place. He referred to the city workmen whom they had to give a rise in wages to periodically. What was the use of granting these increases if they were immediately to be absorbed by the higher prices of the foodstuffs which the workmen had to live upon? That was what was happening all along the line and it occurred to him as a rather ridiculous situation.

The question of payment for the investigation was also briefly discussed. Ald. H. M. Fullerton and Ald. Okell thought such beneficent work should be done gratuitously, but their suggestion was modified to the extent of referring that part of the deal to the finance committee.

PEOPLE'S WELCOME TO SIR WILFRID LAURIER

Remarkable Ovation Tendered Prime Minister in Quebec—Refutes Statement That He is Losing His Hold on Electors of Province.

Quebec, Aug. 19.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier's tour of this province is proving a triumph. On Thursday at Three Rivers he addressed nearly 15,000 people who cheered to the echo. Last night double that number of voters in his constituency and followers crowded Jacques Cartier Square and gave him probably the greatest reception of his career. It was a most remarkable ovation and one which is seldom given to a public man in this country. It was his people's answer to the slanders and calumnies of the Nationalists, and it showed plainly that he had not lost his hold upon the people of the capital. In fact, it was the largest, the most enthusiastic and most united gathering he ever addressed in this old constituency.

Long before the hour of meeting the square was filled with people. The streets along the route were black with humanity. From windows and house-tops and other vantage points they cheered and cheered again as the parade passed. Heralded by bands and by torch-bearers, the carriages bearing the leaders arrived at the square at 8 o'clock. As Sir Wilfrid ascended the platform a great shout went up. It was caught up by those on the sidewalks and surged back and forth as a great tidal wave of sound, and the cheers and welcome was from the heart. It was a people's welcome to their friend and their representative.

For over a third of a century Sir Wilfrid has been associated with Quebec, and if last night's meeting means anything it means that he will continue as their representative. Jacques Cartier Square, where the meeting was held, is in the heart of the Prime Minister's constituency, and it has witnessed some stirring scenes in the past, but never one such as last night's. Not only was the square packed to suffocation, but all the streets leading to it were jammed to capacity. Every window, doorstep, housetop, fire-escape and telegraph poles bore its quota of humanity, while thousands were unable to get either within sight or sound of the speaker. Only a French Canadian audience could cheer and sing and applaud as this gathering did. Sir Wilfrid was visibly affected and bowed and smiled again and again. As he arose to speak the enthusiasm broke all bounds and an indescribable scene took place.

ORDER OF LIONS HAVE INSTITUTED DEN HERE

New Fraternal Body Starts With Large Charter Membership

The Loyal Order of Lions is a new fraternal order with a true British ring about it which has begun organization work in this part of the Dominion, and last night the first den of the order to be established in Victoria was instituted by Curry Daughtry, the energetic deputy supreme organizer of the order who has been working in its interests in this province for the past few weeks.

At the meeting, held in the Eagles' hall, Government street, some 150 of the three hundred odd members who have signified their desire to associate themselves with the new lodge as charter members had gathered to take the usual obligations of the order, administered by the organizer in all due form. Mr. Daughtry has exercised rare discretion in his acceptance of applications and the new den starts on its career in Victoria with an all-round good type of members and every intention to keep the order at a high standard in the capital.

After the lodge had been properly constituted the members settled down to their first business, that of electing officers. The following were chosen, the election in each case being by acclamation: Chief Lion, Frank Le Roy; past chief lion, Thomas Palmer; vice chief lion, Robert Lowe; chaplain, A. Shuttlesworth; financial secretary, Allan E. H. Lowe; recording secretary, Robert McCluskey; master-at-arms, James Palmer; sentinel, George Robinson; outer sentinel, Percy C. Sanford; captain of decree team, Thomas L. Toye; trustees, W. H. P. Sweeney, A. J. Ratcliffe and James F. Wilson.

It was decided to hold the next meeting in the same hall on Friday evening, September 1, when the organization of the lodge will be further perfected and permanent arrangements made as to the meeting place and time.

Organization work is in progress in Australia and South Africa. In the latter Dominion there are now flourishing lodges at Durban, Johannesburg and Cape Town. It is intended that within the next twelve months Mr. Daughtry shall proceed to Great Britain to begin organization work there, for which his genial personality and cosmopolitan spirit eminently fits him. In Vancouver, which will be the Canadian headquarters of the order, there are already 1,400 members and New Westminster, has so far, equalled Victoria.

BROKE WORLD'S RECORD.

Oscar Brindley in Borrowed Machine Reaches Altitude of Over 10,000 Feet.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—The smashing of the world's altitude record by Oscar A. Brindley yesterday was an international surprise that today caused a set-back among the experts who hitherto have considered their knowledge the last word both as to aeroplanes and aviators.

Without detracting from Brindley's credit nor questioning the accuracy of his record, other aviators told of the circumstances in which he was flying at the international meet here.

Brindley's license was obtained at Dayton, Ohio, only a few weeks ago, and while he was considered a fair flyer, he was not thought by the Wrights to have sufficient experience to fly. His name was suggested to Chairman McGinn of the entries committee and was turned down again. Brindley, however, obtained the sympathetic ear of Louis Mitchell of Memphis, who lately had bought a Wright machine, one of the passenger type, bearing the same resemblance to the fast, high flying machines of the meet that a family carriage might to a fast trotter.

"Take my machine and fly," said Mitchell, "it will get you up all right."

So Brindley came to the meet. Brindley started yesterday for the first time with a barograph attached.

"I did not know how to read the barograph," said Brindley to-day, "but Captain Culver showed me how it would look after it had passed the 10,000 mark. I just stayed up till it passed 10,000 and I saw Parmelee and Welch below me, and then I came down."

Neither Parmelee nor Welch came within 1,000 feet of Brindley's height.

LAYING THE BINDER ON YATES STREET

Paving Company Starts Operations on Leading Section of the Contract

Having completed the paving (with light asphalt) of Queen's avenue, the Canadian Mineral Rubber Company started the attack yesterday on the Yates street binder. Needless to say, the company's efforts were closely watched during the forenoon by many interested spectators and public officials who were desirous of having the first view of the much talked of binder combination. At an early hour in the morning the dump-carts commenced making for the Blanchard street junction of Yates, the point at which it was agreed to start, and ever since that time a continuous stream of the company's vehicles has "processioned" up and down the street from the wharf to the scene of operations.

As the binder has only to be one inch in thickness great rapidity can easily be attained in the laying of this interesting material. It is claimed, in fact, that accidents barred, something in the nature of 8,000 yards can be laid per day. Both of the plants at the wharf are in active service and it is anticipated that at the present rate of progress the street will very soon be out of the hands of the company. Yates street will doubtless be regarded as a test not only by the citizens but by the company officials also. To all intents and purposes it is one of the most important sections of the contract to be handled, and therefore it is not surprising to learn of the keen interest its execution has aroused.

The easterly part of the street is, of course, already contracted for by the Warwick company, and it is expected that its end of the street will be completed in conjunction with the portion allotted to the Canadian Mineral Rubber Company.

The Queen's avenue pavement, which Ian St. Clair's Pupils Are Competing This Afternoon.

The annual swimming sports and races by pupils of Ian St. Clair are being held this afternoon. The work of preparing the judge's raft and marking the course was finished this morning in spite of the cheerless outlook, and every arrangement made to accommodate spectators and to hold the meet.

A great deal of interest is taken in Mr. St. Clair's work every year. This year he has broken all records in the number of children he has taught to swim.

The officers who are in charge to-day are: Referee, Captain McIntosh; Judges, Beaumont Boggs, A. D. Hughes

PLENTY OF MEN FOR GRAIN FIELDS

Reports Show That 40,000
Harvesters Will Be Available for the West

Winnipeg, Aug. 19.—Unless crop correspondents and inspectors in every district of the western provinces are methodically coloring reports, this year's harvest will exceed the earlier predictions of a record yield in every respect. During the past twenty-four hours close upon 500 reports have been received from all angles of the west, and the consensus of opinion augurs for a yield which will be larger than ever before. Of more than 100 reports received mention of rust is contained in only three isolated cases, and even there the volume of damage is not great. Fourteen of the largest districts reported, prophetic phenomenal yields.

Current heads the list with an expectation of 40 bushels of wheat and 80 bushels of oats to the acre. Six of the fourteen figure on 40 bushels to the acre and ten between 30 and 40 to the acre. Twenty-six districts reported an estimated wheat yield of from 25 to 30 bushels to the acre, ten reported an estimate of from 20 to 25 bushels and the remainder are from 15 to 20.

Compiled and averaged 50 per cent. of the districts heard from expect yields averaging better than 25 bushels to the acre. Of the remaining 50 per cent. only some half dozen expect yields below the average and the same number reported crops as good but did not give figures.

The districts reporting damage in most cases assert that the crops are too near maturity to suffer seriously from weather inclemencies. General cutting has commenced in every district. Many of the fields have not ripened sufficiently for the reaper, but within another week cutting will be well under way.

The best advice obtainable on the labor question shows that the 40,000 or more men needed will be available to harvest the crop which should run from 215,000,000 to 220,000,000 bushels.

ALLEGED HEAD OF
"ARSON TRUST" TAKEN

Man Wanted by Chicago Police is Arrested by Vancouver Detective

Vancouver, Aug. 19.—A most important capture was made by Detective Scott of the city detective department, when he took in a man named David Korschack, wanted in Chicago on a charge of being at the head of a so-called arson trust, a gang of men who some months ago baffled the police of the American city by a series of incendiary fires.

Scott encountered Korschack in a second-hand store and recognized him from the photograph sent broadcast by the Chicago police. At first the man refused to admit his identity and gave his name as David D. Stein. Later, however, he admitted that he was Korschack, in fact he could not well do otherwise when confronted by his picture.

The Chicago police were notified of the capture and wired their appreciation to Chief Chamberlain. They are sending out a man at once to take the necessary steps to secure Korschack's return to the States.

Charge Against Korschack.
Chicago, Ill., Aug. 18.—Word was received by the Chicago police of the arrest at Vancouver of David Korschack, who was named as the head of an alleged "arson trust," in a confession made to Fire Attorney Sullivan and the police by Leopold Dreyfuss, president of L. Dreyfuss & Company, wholesale clothiers, who afterwards committed suicide by shooting.

Leopold Dreyfuss and his brother, Lazarus Dreyfuss, were arrested, following an incendiary fire that partly destroyed the company's store, June 3. They were questioned by the police for hours, when Leopold broke down and made a written confession in which he admitted that the fire was incendiary and accused Korschack of being the head of an "arson trust," which made a business of setting fire to buildings, so that the owners might recover the insurance. After making the confession, Leopold Dreyfuss was allowed to visit his home on the South Side, accompanied by a detective.

While the detective was in an adjoining room, Dreyfuss shot himself. Lazarus Dreyfuss and Korschack have been charged with arson to defraud and conspiracy to do an illegal act.

The police have been searching for Korschack ever since. He will be brought back to Chicago.

THINKING THEMES BY DR. FRANK CRANE

Because a man is not one thing, it does not follow that he has to be the opposite thing. If I'm not white, I do not have to be black; there is such a thing as yellow.

One gets sick and tired of the eternal Partisan-ship of the public. Nowhere is this carried on more viciously than about the matter of Religion. Because I have ceased to be a religious partisan there are those who set me down at once as an anti-religious. Within the church I know several of the chief priests and scribes who regard me as a lost brother. That is not so bad. I can stand that. But what I cannot stand is the assumption, on the part of the pestiferous crew of anti-religious materialists, divs-free-lovers, and all those who love to roll in the mud anything that is called Holy, that I am one of them. Far from it. I never believed in religion and in the Sanctities of Life so much in my life. Jesus Christ looms in my sky bigger every day. I have left sectarianism because it is "a dome of many-colored glass," but I have not stepped out into the Dark, not into any vile Walpurgis Night, but into "the white radiance of Eternity." Richard de Gallienne hits off well this miserable materialism, rampant twenty years ago, but now, thank God! disappearing: "O happy era of liberty, when the talon is free of the sheath forever, and just may run without his handle, when every one may be as indecent as his heart wishes; when no man takes off the hat to a woman or a church, but all may wear it jauntily on the side, through the length and breadth of the land, may smoke and drink immorally before the sacred passion-play of life, and expectorate with a fine carelessness none daring to make them afraid! Such is the dream of the poor little sensual dog fighter of our days." No, not we move away from this toward a deeper and truer Religion, toward a deeper sense of the sanctity of Life than the world has ever known before.

BORDEN VERSUS BARNARD.

The Times has repeatedly called on its morning contemporary to inform the people of Victoria what is the naval policy of the party which is led by Mr. Borden, of which Mr. Barnard is a member, and of which the Colonist is a valiant champion and the oldest western organ. In view of the virulent attack by Mr. Barnard on the Liberal administration in his speech accepting the nomination as the candidate of the Conservative party in Victoria, it would seem an opportune time to let the public know where Mr. Borden, Mr. Barnard and the Colonist stand relative to each other on this important question.

The criticism of the Colonist, directed against the administration from time to time, has been in the nature of a complaint that apparently no provision is made for the building of warships on the Pacific Coast; that of Mr. Barnard appears to be an alleged change in the plan of the government in the first instance and the stationing of ships, when constructed, in the Atlantic. His words as reported in the Colonist read thus:

"The Liberal Premier was justifying to his constituents his naval policy then, but how had he carried it out? He had not carried it out. First he had cut down the admiralty's request for a Dreadnought unit. Instead he would build four cruisers and six destroyers."

"Mr. Barnard referred to Mr. Fielding's statements when apologizing in the House for not granting a Dreadnought to Great Britain that the greater part of Canadian population was on the eastern coast and that consequently he considered the greater part of the Canadian navy should be located there. While they were willing to recognize that the Pacific Coast stood in need of protection, the Liberals had seemingly to face the fact that the majority of voters lived on the eastern side of the Dominion, and they considered therefore it was better for political exigencies to place the fleet on the Atlantic Coast."

The objection of Mr. Barnard to the course of the government is not clear even from these words. He does not know where the government intends to allocate the ships when they are constructed, but he announces that "for political exigencies" it was decided to station the ships on the Atlantic Coast. It strikes the average critic of this criticism that it were better to await the completion of the ships before they are stationed.

Dealing with the criticism of the Colonist, it is only necessary to quote Mr. Borden himself. We presume that if the Colonist is not amenable to Mr. Borden it must have a policy of its own. Perhaps it would be better, in view of the fact that the Conservative party already consists of three distinct factions, if another segment of the party could be formed in British Columbia for the gratification of Mr. McBride, Mr. Barnard and the Colonist. The history of the case is briefly this: After the defeat of a motion in the House of Commons on March 30, 1909, made by Geo. E. Foster, that Canada should no longer delay to assume her share of the financial burden incident to the protection of the exposed sea coasts of the Dominion, Sir Wilfrid Laurier moved that "the payment of regular or periodical contributions to the Imperial treasury for naval and military purposes would not, so far as Canada was concerned, be the most satisfactory solution of the question of defence." His amendment carried and he immediately proposed the construction of a Canadian navy, and after long debate his plan was accepted by the opposition. It was this arrangement which was spoken of by Sir Charles Tupper in a letter of November, 1909, in the words "a fearful responsibility would rest on those who disturbed or destroyed it."

Sir Charles had been moved to say this as a result of an address delivered by Mr. Borden at a Dominion banquet in London on July 1, 1909. Mr. Borden's words, as reported in the British papers, were as follows:

"The resolution in the form in which it was passed while its terms might not be upon their surface seem as significant as the offer of one or two Dreadnoughts would have been, laid down a permanent policy for the Dominion of Canada upon which both parties united and which would serve a more practical purpose than any such offer of Dreadnoughts."

Mr. Borden reaffirmed his London declaration at a Conservative gathering in Nova Scotia on October 14, 1909 in these words:

"The House of Commons last session laid down a certain policy touching naval defence in which both political parties united. It may not have satisfied the aspirations of all Conservatives, but it seemed our bounden duty to place, if possible, above the limits of partisan strife a question so vital and far-reaching, and to attain the standard which has for many years governed both political parties in Great Britain with respect to foreign nations. "How the present administration will work out the policy which was outlined by a resolution to which I have alluded, remains to be seen. One governing principle, at least, should control namely, that out of our own materials, by our own labor and by the instructed skill of our own people, any necessary provision for our naval defence should be made so far as may be reasonably possible. In this connection, may we not hope that there shall be given a stimulus and encouragement to the shipbuilding industry of Canada which has long been lacking?"

Mr. Borden was speaking to his own party, in his own province, and among his hearers were many of his own constituents. He then attempted to justify himself and his party for assenting to the plan of the government and he gave as his reason for doing so that the construction of warships in Canada would have the unquestionable effect of reviving the shipbuilding industry, now almost defunct, in the Maritime Provinces. Here, again, are his words:

"To-day should be Nova Scotia's opportunity in that regard. Providence has endowed this Province with the material, with the men and with the maritime situation which are essential not only for developing a scheme of naval defence and protection, but also for the rejuvenation of that shipbuilding industry which once made Nova Scotia famous throughout the world."

Thus, we have Mr. Borden, "for political expediency" justifying his course in the House of Commons and assuring his own constituents that his reason for doing so was that the building of these ships on the Atlantic coast must revive the shipbuilding industry there.

We think that, in view of the position taken by his leader, Mr. Barnard has simply made himself ridiculous by the rapid criticisms he has uttered in Victoria. It must be a severe tax upon the people of this community to have to listen to the shallow, insincere and altogether stultifying cheapness of the loud noise made by Mr. Barnard. From the Colonist we expect nothing else but it may be permissible to suggest that these Conservative jugglers with Mr. Borden's policy should get together and agree upon some common conspiracy of foolishness.

VAN HORNE THE HERO.

Hon. Richard McBride, in his address at the nomination of Mr. G. H. Barnard, made feeling reference to Sir William Van Horne, and quoted the latter in his opposition to reciprocity. Mr. McBride could scarcely have been more unhappy in his selection of a name with which to conjure. Sir William Van Horne is a high official in the Laurentine Paper Company of Quebec, and recently this company issued a circular advertising stock in the company and in the circular was pointed out the advantages that must follow reciprocity, in the manufacture of paper in Canada. The people of this city will, however, best remember Sir William as the man who, twenty years ago, boasted that he "would make the grass grow in the streets of Victoria," and how in pursuance of this same plan, as the head of the Canadian Pacific railway, he declared the waters too shallow in the Straits to permit of the Empresses docking at the Outer Wharf. They will remember how passengers had to be lightered out to the Empresses in the straits on dories and in dinghies to please Sir William and keep his spite against Victoria warm. They know too that this was a feeble false statement, for when an Empress was suddenly disabled it was discovered that she could be docked without difficulty at this port. People of Victoria will remember how Sir William compelled the mails and letters, freight and passengers for the Orient to go to Vancouver to board these ships and how letters and freight from the Orient had to be carried to Vancouver and re-shipped to Victoria on the C. P. N. boats, suffering the delays incident to the convenience of Sir William's companies. Yet in Mr. McBride's eyes Sir William is a genius and an authority. Very good. The Toronto World is calling loudly to Sir William to run in the constituency of Centre Toronto and it says that "at a crisis like the present it is the duty of the best and biggest men to come into the fight." Any "big" man for a hero so long as he is opposed to reciprocity.

The Colonist paints a doleful picture of the financial condition of the United States, which may or may not be fanciful. But, whether a true picture or a false, what has brought such a state of affairs about? Is not high protection the cause of the trusts and combines? And is it not high protection for Canada our contemporary's idol, Premier McBride, advocates?

The morning paper to-day has a long article on the readiness with which Canadians banks will lend money to people who have good securities and compares panic conditions in the United States. The people in Canada who are going to vote for reciprocity are not the class who usually receive accommodation from banks. They are the people whose living costs so much they never acquire any securities with which to borrow from banks. If they could get the bread of life untaxed by protectionist tariffs they might become somewhat independent and able to enjoy the kind regard which the banks always have for one with "good security."

Mr. G. H. Barnard in his speech accepting the Conservative nomination said there are 8,000,000 starving people to-day in England. How do the Britons in British Columbia appreciate this somewhat wholesale slander and untruthful outrage upon the conditions in the Mother Country. We have pointed out before that it seems questionable whether Mr. Barnard is capable of telling the truth upon a public platform. Is Britain becoming decadent?

The Calgary News-Telegram says "We have heard an experienced editor speak contemptuously of the readers' faculty of memory. But it does not require a very well trained memory to note that whereas, for instance, the opposition papers are now condemning the government for an attempt to 'get a snap judgment on the issue they were two months ago clamoring for an election, arguing that the country was opposed to the change and that would require only a little time and trouble to prove it."

Dr. King of Cranbrook, who has been chosen by the Liberals of Kootenay as their candidate, is one of the most popular men in the interior of British Columbia. During the term of his service in the provincial legislature the doctor acted as Liberal whip, and was highly esteemed by members on both sides of the house for his many admirable qualities. A stronger man to oppose A. S. Goodeve could not have been selected, and there is every reason to believe that the redemption of Kootenay will be accomplished on the 21st of September.

The Colonist prints the following dispatch, under the heading "Market for British Columbia Fish:"

"Winnipeg, Aug. 18.—President Schurman, of Cornell University, returning from Alaska, said the Pacific Coast district of northern Canada will soon provide the middle western states with most of their fish."

There can be no doubt that Prof. Schurman's statement is correct. After the reciprocity agreement comes into effect the prohibitory duty on Canadian fish entering the American market will be removed and then this province will supply "the middle western States with most of their fish." But until reciprocity is accomplished no British Columbia fish will go into the American market. Hence, Victorians interested will vote for reciprocity.

Victoria will be inclined to smile at the political philosophy of the "chachako" who is reported in the morning paper to have said: "The conviction is that if reciprocity is adopted there will be nothing to prevent Canada from bringing in British goods under the preferential tariff and exporting them to the United States under reciprocity. 'Naturally,' he points out, 'the United States will not put up with that and the result will be the first dictation to Canada from Washington against Great Britain.' The publication of such exhibitions of ignorance of political conditions and of the terms of the reciprocity pact can do nothing else than breed contempt for the class represented by those who express them among all intelligent people. Imagine Britain exporting agricultural products to Canada and the United States."

Hon. Richard McBride, speaking before the Manufacturers' Association at the annual meeting in Vancouver last year on the inducements British Columbia affords for farming development, said "In British Columbia to-day butter and eggs are a luxury on the tables." Yet Mr. McBride says "We can play Uncle Sam's old trick and raise the duty still higher," which is simply saying because the British Columbia farmer does not produce enough of these necessities to make them anything less than a luxury the workingman must be taxed for them until the farmers raise enough to bring the price down to the level that can be touched by the average householder. We surmise that the workmen must be growing pretty sick of Tory political economy. It is right in line with "Keep up the cost of living or wages will go down," and also the practice which employs Chinese because they are cheaper than white people.

W. H. HENDERSON MAY BE Y.M.C.A. SECRETARY

Local Association Extends Invitation to Secretary of the Vancouver Branch

A special meeting of the board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. was held Thursday evening to meet W. H. Henderson, associate secretary, Vancouver, and to consider plans for future work. Mr. Henderson addressed the meeting, telling the board of his experience in association work. He observed that a strong and comprehensive work could be carried on in this city now that it had such a splendid equipment. He was in a position to say absolutely whether he could come to Victoria, as he was at present engaged in important work in Vancouver.

At the conclusion of his speech the board extended him a unanimous call, and he agreed to give a definite answer within a week.

Mr. Henderson was shown through the building and was much pleased with the work and prospects here. He and Mrs. Henderson returned Thursday night to Vancouver.

It has been finally decided to hold the opening during the last week in September, and plans are being made with that end in view. Most of the rooms are already furnished and will be ready of occupancy next week. As soon as the engineers for the heating and ventilation plant arrives the shower-baths in the basement will be in use. This will probably be in about a week's time.

The physical director has drawn up in rough a set of time tables for gymnasium classes, and has arranged all the apparatus as it will be when in use.

PRICE OF ASSESSMENT ROLL

From $25 to $40 is a rather far cry, but the city achieved it in the matter of publishing the assessment roll for the benefit of the real estate men, and Ald. H. M. Farnsworth cordially thanked the council on behalf of his fellows in the craft. It was reported to the council that it had been found impossible to print the roll at the original figure of $25 and the price would have to be fixed at $40. Before proceeding ing with the printing it will be necessary to discover whether the real estate men who contracted for copies at $25 will "stay" with the proposition not that it has been advanced to the larger figure.

SEWER PIPING IS IN COMPETITION

Council Decides to Have More Information Before Committing Itself to Either

Vitrified pipe has not yet won out over its cement competitor in the race for the sewer contract which was recently awarded to the city engineer. The matter was reopened last night on a letter from the Dominion Clay Company, pointing out that while arguments in favor of the vitrified pipe had been admitted at the last meeting of the council nothing was said in regard to their product. The company claims that proof can easily be obtained of the fact that their material is just as good if not better than the vitrified pipe, and as their figure tendered for the contract was some $16,000 less than what will be paid for the vitrified pipe it was claimed that the matter should be more fully gone into before a final decision is arrived at, not only in the interest of the company but of the city.

Ald. Langley found himself in accord with the company's idea. He was of opinion that the question of sewer piping was much too important to be lightly passed over. He did not know if the matter could be reopened, as tenders had already been called for, but if it was at all possible he would like to see the matter thoroughly gone into.

Ald. Ross was also in favor of having more information, and Ald. Morehead, who over the adoption of the vitrified pipe, agreed that it would be as well to learn all there was to know on the subject before finally committing themselves.

After further discussion it was decided that Ald. Morehead and the city engineer should go to Vancouver to inspect the Dominion Clay Company's product and report back to the council.

In connection with the sewer contract a communication was received from the Trades and Labor Council opposing the letting of the work by contract and favoring the city engineer's retention of the concrete. The letter was "received and filed."

The forthcoming cricketing tourney to commence in the city on August 21 was brought before the attention of the council with a request for financial assistance. It was explained that teams will be here from all the large cities on the coast, including Seattle, Portland, Tacoma, Vancouver, Nanaimo, Vernon and Nelson. The request was referred to the finance committee to deal with.

In regard to the proposed city pipe yard which has been shelved for some time a move was made last night which may have tangible results. The building inspector was given instruction to offer $5,500 for a piece of property belonging to J. A. Sayward, situated at the foot of Garbally road, consisting of about one acre, and for which the sum of $5,400 is asked.

ECONOMIST WILL BE HEARD HERE

J. S. COWPER, OF PRINCE RUPERT, ON RECIPROCITY

Mass Meeting of Electors to be Held in Theatre on Monday

On Monday night a public meeting will be held in the Victoria theatre in the interests of the candidacy of Hon. Wm. Templeman.

At this meeting J. S. Cowper, formerly of the Toronto Globe and now editor of the Prince Rupert News, will deliver an address upon the all-absorbing question of reciprocity. Mr. Cowper is a platform speaker of long experience and having for years been a close student of economic questions his address upon reciprocity will be illuminating.

Mr. Cowper possesses the faculty of carrying his argument along in clear, simple language and of finally driving home his point in a way that immediately appeals to his audience. Anyone who does not attend the meeting on Monday night will miss the opportunity of hearing one of the ablest exponents of the reciprocity issue which will be delivered in the entire campaign. Mr. Cowper was publicly congratulated by President Gompers when he was in the east for work which he did for the cause of labor and addresses delivered by him to working men.

Mr. Templeman will also speak briefly and the meeting will be addressed by G. N. Nadan, M.P., and T. D. Pattullo. Seats will be reserved for ladies.

ANOTHER KNOCK AT THE CONTRACT

CITY COUNCIL GETS A RESOLUTION TO PERUSE

Fair Wage Association Expresses Its Candid Opinion of Council's Action

The city council of Victoria has apparently not yet heard the last of the labor end of the contract which it recently entered into with the Canadian Mineral Rubber Company for the paving of the city streets. Many loud-voiced complaints and pointed protests have already been heard on the subject by this all-enduring body since the paving contract was awarded, and it has survived them all with considerable fortitude, but last night it found itself faced with another "slam" couched in more determined and condemnatory language than any of its predecessors. It came from the Employers' Fair Wage Association of Victoria, and was in the following terms in resolution form:

"Whereas the Victoria city council has given a contract to the Canadian Mineral Rubber Company, and the said contract has been found on account of its phraseology to be insufficient to protect the labor men of the city of Victoria, who are owners of teams;

"And whereas the city of Victoria is now flooded with foreign teams and teamsters who are obtaining steady employment while city teamsters, who will be called upon to pay for a share of this contract, instead of having a preference shown them as intended, are forced to stand idly by with their horses doing nothing;

"And whereas there are numbers of cases where young men who would make good citizens are leaving our city after having bought teams and outfits on the strength of this contract with an unfavorable labor clause, intended to protect local labor, but not doing so;

"And whereas reports will go far and wide from these young men and others who are suffering from this enforced idleness by reason of the action of the council of Victoria, that Victoria should be shunned as its council does not protect its own citizens in the expenditure of civic money;

"Therefore be it resolved that we, the Employers' Fair Wage Association of Victoria, do place before the said city council in as strong a manner as possible our condemnation of the said council's actions in this matter, and that the said council be informed as representatives of the citizens that they have by their actions abrogated all would be intentions to deal fairly and honestly with the ratepayers of this city;

"And be it further resolved that the said city council be required forthwith to appoint a committee of its council to make the fullest investigation into these matters, and in case the above recitals are found to be true to take such action as will place the members of this association on an equal basis with foreign teamsters."

Ald. Bishop thought that such an indictment should not be allowed to pass. He therefore recommended that a committee be appointed to investigate the complaint.

Ald. Ross was sure that there were charges in the complaint of which the city council was not guilty. What had the city council done with the contract? The city engineer drew up the contract and recommended its adoption, and was therefore responsible for it.

Mayor Morley pointed out that the contract had been discussed by a special committee of the council with a view to seeing that labor was adequately protected.

"It is our business to see that the interests of the ratepayers of this city are looked after, and I think that in this particular instance they were looked after. I do not think that the teamsters have any valid complaint to make," said Ald. H. M. Farnsworth.

It was decided that, as the matter had already been reported upon for the benefit of other complaints, a copy of the report be sent to the association. The Employers' Fair Wage Association was not the only body to have a knock at the Canadian Mineral Rubber Company last night. The secretary of the Trades and Labor Council had a letter on the file stating that a number of local engineers had applied to the company for work and had been refused on the ground that there were no vacancies. One member of the organization had been appointed to operate a steam roller belonging to the company. It was stated, on learning, however, that the machine had not been passed by the inspector he raised a demur instead of steam, and was instantly dismissed without recompense for his trouble. This latter matter was referred to the city engineer to take up with the officials of the company.

The Giants had an easy time defeating the Islanders at Seattle yesterday. The home team hit the Victoria pitchers hard, did fast work on the bases and took the game 13 to 3. In the seventh inning Moe, a Seattle recruit, was put in for a try-out. He struck out six men and allowed two hits and two runs. The score:

CRICKET

Cricketers' Headquarters, Room 207

Times Building, Broad and Fort Sts.

For several years the need of a central meeting place for Tournament

Week has been keenly felt. Clubs, hostels, and cigar stores have been re-questioned for this purpose with unsatisfactory results falling far below requirements in comfort and utility.

Through the courtesy of Hon. Wm.

Templeman, room 207 in the Times

Building has been thrown open for the week for the use of all cricketers. That it will be thoroughly appreciated goes without saying. Umpires are requested to report there before the games for instructions. Captains also are requested to see that their scorebooks are left there after the games. The score-books should be turned in, as scores are seldom correct or complete. With both books any errors or omissions can be adjusted.

Crickets bags can be left there, engagements made, Windsor's Law for Cricket perused, general information given and received, and although the time is short it is hoped a telephone will be installed and a stenographer in attendance. Visitors will be cordially welcomed.

The tournament will begin Monday,

August 21, with Garrison playing

Seaside at Work Point; Seattle will engage the Navy-Esquilmat combination on the Canteen grounds; Strawberry Vale vs. Albion at Beacon Hill, and Burrard vs. Victoria on the Jubilee

Hospital grounds. All the grounds are in tip-top condition and the games promise to be well contested. Possibly the most interest will be centered at the Jubilee Hospital field, where on the result will hang the question as to whether Victoria or Burrard will be in the finals.

Play starts on all the grounds at 10.30 a. m., stumps drawn at 6 p. m., unless time has been lost in starting or at the luncheon, or tea interval, in which case the umpires can continue

SEATTLE MAY HAVE RECALL ELECTION

Checking Up Names on Petitions Against Mayor and Three Aldermen

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 19.—A preliminary survey of the recall petitions filed against Mayor George W. Dilling indicates enough signatures to bring about an election for mayor, but the petitioners against Councilmen Max

Wardell, E. L. Blaine, and J. Y. C.

Kellogg, will probably fall short. This is due to a peculiar situation arising indirectly out of the granting of surrogate to women last fall.

Under the city charter to recall the mayor, petitions containing 25 per cent of the total vote cast at the last general election must be presented.

The last general election was the one at which Hiram C. Gill was chosen mayor. At that time women did not have the right to vote and only 8,669 names are required to bring about an election.

When the recall election was held last winter and Mayor Gill was ousted from office, women had been granted the right of suffrage and the total vote cast was nearly double that polled at the general election, but that election will not be considered in checking the petitions.

It is estimated that the petitions

Months.

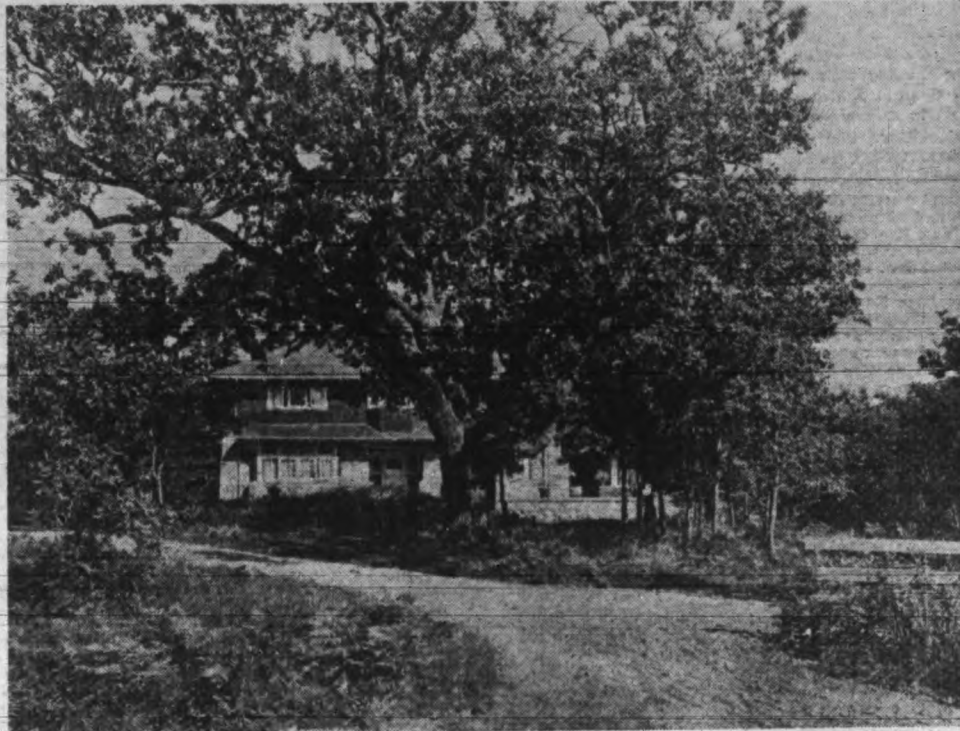

RICHMOND PARK is a place of certainties. Everything which tends to enhance values or make an ideal home are to be found within its limits. The person who likes trees will find many beautiful specimens, from the graceful alder to the more majestic oak. Then again, the person who prefers cleared lots—and many do—will find many large cleared garden lots to choose from.

The modern improvements already under way, including sewerage, water, street grading, home building, etc., all mean a rapid growth, and quick rise in values in this subdivision.

Then too, is the question of surroundings so important, either from a home builder's or an investor's standpoint. Richmond Park is surrounded by the best residential district in Victoria. Rockland avenue is one block away, while Foul Bay Road actually borders on the property.

Richmond Park Will Have a Quick Development

THE TYPE OF HOMES SURROUNDING RICHMOND PARK

THE fact that this property was withheld from the market so long, accounts for its present unique position.

A personal visit to Richmond Park is necessary to show you just what this position is. Roughly, it is this: It means that a large tract of choice residential property within the city limits, has been so long withheld from the market, that it has practically been surrounded by modern city improvements. Sidewalks and water run right up to the property, while sewers run right through the subdivision on three streets. This means that improvements now under way are all that is needed to bring values in Richmond Park to the same as surrounding properties. These conditions place Richmond Park in the front rank of investment opportunities.

One could say much more about this desirable property, but you must see Richmond Park to appreciate the advantages it has to offer.

If you make your choice early, and get the pick of these lots, you will undoubtedly get the choicest buys in Victoria. INVESTIGATE TO-DAY.

C. P. R. CUTS RATES TO AID THE EXHIBITION

Associations Are Advertising Widely Throughout the Province.

The two provincial exhibitions, the one to be held in Vancouver from August 28 to September 4, under the auspices of the Vancouver Exhibition Association, and the other in Victoria September 5 to 9, under the auspices of the B. C. Agricultural Association, should enjoy a greater patronage from residents of the interior parts of British Columbia and the prairie provinces this year than ever before, owing to the fact that the C. P. R. has been induced to cut its rates to the coast from as far east as Calgary practically in half, the reduced rates to hold good from Aug. 28 to Sept. 14.

As a result of this cut a resident of Calgary may visit the Vancouver Fair and on its conclusion proceed to this city, take in the local exhibition and then return to the coast for a week and his entire return fare will only cost him $22.75. The return fare from Kamloops will be $19.55, from Revelstoke $14.75, from Vernon $14.55, from Rossland $20.45, from Nicola $19.15, from Vancouver to Victoria $2.00, and so on all along the line, the fare in all cases being a great decrease over that charged regularly.

The benefits accruing to both associations through the generosity of the C. P. R. are considerable and go to show the wisdom of the associations in uniting as they did, and bringing to bear their combined influences on the railway company. Another department in which they are experiencing the advantages of this co-operation is in the advertising.

The C. P. R. has placed its facilities for advertising at the disposal of the associations and posters adorned in roseate lines and intended to install in the minds of the general public not the fact that there will be a fair at Victoria or one at Vancouver, but the fact that there will be two fairs, one at Victoria and the other at Vancouver, the leading cities of British Columbia, are being pasted up throughout the entire west.

The Vancouver Exhibition Association is arranging an excursion on stock from their wharf on either Sept. 3 or 4 to Victoria. Capt. Troup has been notified of this and assured that he can secure a good load for any boat he may send.

In regard to the Victoria Fair proper George Stanger, the secretary, reports that arrangements are going ahead rapidly. The entries in all departments have been coming in faster to date than on any previous year.

One of the most unique exhibits on the grounds will be the Pacific Coast Construction Company's display of concrete cement work. The company will actually run up a cement building, inside of which they will endeavor to give the public an insight into the superiority of their work over that of other companies.

In the stock department the classes are filling up rapidly. A large entry of Clydesdales have been received from Capt. G. L. Watson, of Westholme. These are said to be the finest imported Clydesdales in America. A herd of Guernsey cattle has been entered by Bamford, of Chilliwack.

The ladies are as usual going to take an extremely active part in the fair, and have already engaged more space than they have been accustomed to take. The Ladies' Political Equality League has secured a large section of the grounds on which they will erect a tent, which will embody business, rest and tea rooms. The league has interested the association on its behalf and has been promised that the Boy Scouts band, which will give concerts on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, will be stationed in the vicinity of the tent.

SPEEDING AT GORGE NOW THING OF PAST

Owners of Launches Face Fine of $20 for Breaking
Six-Mile Limit

For many years the motor boats of Victoria have been permitted to tear up and down the Victoria Arm with an open throttle, and although the occupants of canoes and rowboats have many times been placed in danger by the swells kicked up, nothing was ever done to stop them, but now, as all "good" things come to an end some time or another, so must the speeding in the Gorge. Anyone who tries to drive a launch at more than six miles an hour from now on will be fined the sum of $20.

Automobiles have been under the long arm of the law for some time, and now that the motor boats are getting so numerous and are being perfected into speed boats, the Marine and Fisheries Department officials here have decided that the "good thing" should stop. Recommendations were forwarded to Ottawa and in the last mail the leaflets were received from the federal capital which read as follows:

"His Excellency-in-Council is pleased to order that the special regulations for the government of certain public harbors in the province of British Columbia, approved by order-in-council of April 20, 1911, shall be and the same are hereby amended by adding the following section thereto as section 15 (a):

Motor boats are prohibited from navigating the water of Victoria Arm above Point Ellice bridge at a faster rate of speed than six miles an hour under a penalty of $20 for each violation."

The Marine Department will be pleased to give launch owners a copy of this new regulation. It will be remembered that a short time ago officials of the department patrolled the waters of the Gorge and caught numerous launches that were speeding along at anywhere from seven to eleven knots an hour. The new rule takes effect at once and those who fail to comply with it and are caught will be relieved of considerable cash which would operate their launches for some time.

SURVEY OF MASSET INLET IS FINISHED

Big Body of Water on Graham Island Now Open for Navigation

Within a few weeks the great Masset Inlet which runs for nearly 40 miles into the heart of Graham Island, Q. C., will be opened to navigation. Up till the present time this great body of water has been a useless asset to the islands, as steamers have not been able to enter owing to the fact that there was no chart of this section, and it was believed to be a dangerous place to navigate.

The work of charting this big body of water has just been completed by the Dominion government hydrographical steamer Lillock, Capt. Musgrave, and the results of her work in that part will be embodied in a chart. Contrary to what was at first thought by many, the chart will show that deep water exists practically all over the inland sea, deep enough at all stages of the tide for great steamships.

When the chart, which is now being prepared by the government at Ottawa, is issued, it will mean a great deal for the Queen Charlotte Islands. At the present time vessels are practically unable to enter the inland sea owing to the action of Lloyd's, who refuse to carry insurances on any vessel that passes Masset. It will then be possible to carry supplies to settlers, lumber camps and mines and market the great coal areas and timber limits of Graham Island by the easiest and cheapest method. When the boats are permitted to pass into Masset Inlet there will no doubt be a big rush into that part.

Owing to the strong rush of tidal water it is not possible for vessels to find safe anchorage at Masset at all times, but with the opening of navigation of the inlet it will be possible to establish ports with safe anchorage. The carrying out of this survey work was part of the programme outlined for the Lillock this year, and she has accomplished the big task in remarkably fast time.

SUICIDE THE VERDICT.

An inquest into the death of T. R. Cayzer, who was found with the top of his head blown off in the vicinity of Mount Newton, West Saanich road, on Thursday, was held yesterday and a verdict of suicide while temporarily insane was brought in.

Deceased was found by T. B. Anderson and had apparently shot himself with a shot gun. He was 36 years of age and unmarried. He owned an acre of property in the Saanich district. One brother survives, residing in Metcheson. The funeral took place this afternoon at 2.15 o'clock from the Victoria undertaking parlors and fifteen minutes later from Christ Church cathedral. Services were conducted by Rev. William Burton. Interment was made in Ross Bay cemetery.

BAND CONCERT.

Weather permitting a band concert in Beacon Hill park will take place to-morrow afternoon at 3, when the Fifth Regiment, C. G. A., band, under Deputy Conductor J. Willmore, sr., will render the following programme: March—"The Combat", Abe Holzmänn Overture—"Count of Essex", Mercadante Anthem—"Adoration", Linton Selection—"Beauties of Ireland", Newton Chorus—"Shepherd's Abiding", Anan Selection—"Reminiscences of the South", Solomon Waltz—"Wedding Day", Taboni March—"Starlight", Glogman God Save the King.

CLEAR LOADED DOWN WANTS WIRELESS FOR TO PLIMSOLL MARKS FAR NORTHERN PARTS

Lonsdale Gets Away for Salina Cruz with Monster Cargo of Coal and Lumber

Outward bound for Salina-Cruz the Canadian-Mexican liner Lonsdale, Capt. Bates, called at this port Thursday afternoon to take on a few odds and ends of freight and after spending a few hours here cleared for the southern city. The big steamship was loaded down to her Plimsoll mark and carried one of the largest cargoes for Mexican ports that she has ever had stowed in her holds.

After loading 500,000 feet of timber at Vancouver the vessel proceeded to Union Bay and after bunkering, left for Comox where she took on 3,000 tons of coal. The lumber aboard is for Salina Cruz and two thousand tons of coal is for Mazatlan, while the remainder is for Guaymas. There was also a little general cargo loaded at the Terminal City and Victoria which will be discharged at her regular ports.

Carrying a full cargo of farming implements, sewing machines, talking machines, cotton, lumber and fish, the Osaka Shosen Kaisha liner Chicago Maru, left this afternoon for Yokohama and other Oriental ports. She took many passengers, including a number of Chinese and Japanese who are returning to the Far East.

Another vessel of the same line, the Canada Maru, is due to reach here next Wednesday morning from Yokohama, having on board a valuable cargo of silk and general merchandise. This is the second trans-Pacific trip of the Canada, she having made her initial passage about three months ago.

On Wednesday next the Empress of Japan will leave here for the Orient and two days later the new liner Oriole, Capt. Findlay, will be here. She is bringing a good cargo as well as many passengers.

Residents of Dawson to Send Recommendations to Ottawa Shortly

Representations are to be made in a very short time to the Dominion government, urging the extension of the telegraph system to several of the out-of-the-way posts of the Yukon. Bishop Stringer of Dawson, who is well-known in this city, having paid several visits to friends here, will soon take the matter up with officials at Ottawa. The residents of the north are desirous of linking up Herschel Island, Fort MacPherson and Rampart House with Dawson.

By this method Bishop Stringer believes that these outlying places will be robbed of much of their isolation and the country in general wonderfully benefited. If plants are established at the three places an active campaign will follow for the equipping of others of the far-away places with wireless apparatus so that they can keep in touch with the different large centres in the Yukon.

Everyone in the north is interested in the movement and it is expected that within a very short time strong recommendations will be sent to the federal capital asking for the installing of plants at the different places. By this method Bishop Stringer believes that the small settlements of the north will not have to undergo such terrible privations as is sometimes the case, as word of their condition may be flashed to Dawson or some other place and assistance sent. It would be a material help, too, in the work of administration.

The stations would be of the greatest benefit to the north and, it is believed, would be the means of causing an influx of people.

MUCH WHALE OIL GOING ON KEEMUN

BLUE FUNNELER LOADING CARGO OF 5,000 BARRELS

Also Taking 5,000 Cases of Salmon and Some Lumber—Liner Loses Seamen

One of the largest shipments of whale oil to leave this port on a Blue Funnel liner and to be carried to various parts of the world, is being loaded by the big Holt liner Keemun, Capt. Conradi, which arrived at the Outer Wharf early yesterday from the Terminal City. She will remain here for several days, as she has an exceptionally large cargo to load. Five thousand barrels of whale oil are to be stowed down in the bottom of her hold and five thousand cases of salmon together with nearly two hundred thousand feet of lumber will also be loaded.

The Blue Funnel boats are always the most successful bidders for the carrying of whale oil, but never before has the amount shipped on one vessel amounted to five thousand barrels. The salmon consignment includes the big shipment brought south by the Boscowitz steamer Venture from River's Inlet and the other coast canneries. The Keemun will not get away before Sunday evening.

Reporting the drowning of a seaman in a sea mishap, the British freighter Senator, Capt. Atkinson, has arrived at San Francisco from European ports via San Pedro. On August 4, shortly before the steamer arrived at the lower coast port, Alex. Wickham and Fred Lomax, sailors, who were rigging the starboard gangway, were thrown into the ocean by the carrying away of the tackle. Two boats were lowered immediately and life preservers tossed over. Lomax was rescued in a short time, but his unfortunate companion was not seen after he went down. It is believed that he was knocked senseless in falling. Lomax was a native of England, 38 years of age.

The Senator, which operates in the newly established service of the Harrison line, between Europe and North Pacific ports, brought a full cargo of continental merchandise to this coast. She discharged a part cargo at San Pedro, and after doing likewise at Frisco will come north to Victoria and on her outward voyage the Senator is to carry one of the heaviest cargoes of California canned goods ever shipped from the Golden Gate to the United Kingdom and Europe.

REAL IMMIGRATION SHIP WAS VENTURE

Brought Nearly Two Hundred Indians and Orientals From River's Inlet—Out Again

Every stateroom aboard the ship and every available nook and corner in the steerage accommodation of the Boscowitz steamer Venture, Captain Walter Morehouse, which arrived in port Thursday night, was occupied during her southbound trip. A new record was established by the vessel for the number of passengers brought south by any of the smaller boats of the coasting fleet. She had sixty-seven and nearly two hundred Chinese, Japanese and Indian steerage passengers.

Following the closing of the River's Inlet canneries, as a result of the finish of the sockeye run, the employees there to the number of one hundred and ninety, packed their kits and came south on the Venture. When the ship entered Vancouver harbor she appeared like a veritable immigration ship. The sight was a most peculiar one and the Chinese, Japanese and Indians mingled on the forward deck with the white passengers on the boat with the white passengers on the boat with the white passengers on the boat.

Officers aboard the Venture stated that the run at River's Inlet for this season is over and that the catch there was rather small. The fishermen were unable to obtain any good size catches and the season has been rather unprofitable at that. As the Naas river sockeyes are now running better and that the packers expect to have a record catch.

Besides her large passenger list the Venture also came south with a big cargo of general freight, including for the most part canned salmon. She has several thousand cases of the canned goods and brought the greater part of the shipment to Victoria to discharge. This is being loaded by the Blue Funnel liner Keemun, lying at the outer wharf.

The majority of the passengers aboard the Venture disembarked at Vancouver although several of those travelling in the saloon and all the Indians and a few of the Orientals came through to this city.

At midnight the Venture left port again bound for the north. She carried a big passenger list and considerable freight.

When the Waterhouse steamer Lonsdale left Portland today, bound for Hongkong and way ports via Puget Sound, she had aboard the bodies of three Portland Chinese, which will be taken to the Flowery Kingdom for interment alongside of their ancestors.

SOLDIERS GUARD LONDON STATIONS

STRONG FORCES OF TROOPS ON DUTY

Three Thousand Special Constables Have Been Sworn in at Liverpool

London, Aug. 19.—The strike declared by the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants and the allied societies was attended with comparatively little rioting to-day, though the afternoon brought reports of bloodshed at Llanelli, Wales, where troops fired into a mob, killing two men and mortally wounding two others.

Before this news was received here, the home office issued an optimistic bulletin on the strike situation. It read:

"Perfect tranquility and order prevailed throughout the London district. Reduced but effective train service is operated at most stations. The port of London is working its full activity with the exception of the lightermen, who are still on strike.

"No serious rioting is reported from any part of the country, although there have been disorders at various points. The Lord Mayor of Liverpool reports that he is being loyally supported by magistrates of Liverpool and large number of citizens. Three thousand special constables have been sworn in at Liverpool."

The disorders mentioned by Home Secretary Churchill were briefly conflicts between the strikers and police in suburban towns.

Violent attempts to harm the railroads were few and far between. In some instances the rails were torn up, the wires cut and signal boxes destroyed.

The passenger trains have been stoned and some obstructions have been put in their way. All of these obstructions were discovered in time to avoid accidents.

Large numbers of the clerical staffs of the railroads have been trained in other branches of the work, and 600 clerks at a meeting at the Euston railway station to-day agreed to fill the places of strikers, and were assigned to duty at the signal boxes and to other work with which they were familiar.

Some union men who were out yesterday returned to work to-day.

An official of the railroad men's union stated to-day that if the strike was protracted, the Amalgamated Society of Engineers and Firemen intended to feel the pulse of the American Locomotive Engineers' organization and ask the latter for assistance. The two societies have kept in close touch, and the present organization in England is due largely to suggestions received from the Americans.

More stranded Americans are getting away this week than had been expected. Special trains to connect with the Celtic at Liverpool and the Minneapolis at Southampton left Euston station promptly on time. The railroad company promises to supply the usual special train to take passengers to join the Vaterland at Dover. The Cunard line was confident that the Caronia would sail from Liverpool on Sunday, but the White Star line has now definitely cancelled the schedule sailing of the Megantic from Liverpool. The Megantic should have got away for Quebec and Montreal to-day.

The railway terminals were the scenes of confusion, but no violence was used. At Hardington and Marylebone stations, where the strikers were in an ugly mood, no one without a ticket was allowed on the platform. At Euston station 800 clerks acted as volunteer baggage and signalmen.

The main line service from St. Pancras, Marylebone and Paddington were practically paralyzed. One-fourth of the usual number of trains were operated from King's Cross.

Late in the day the troops at Paddington and Marylebone were reinforced. It was officially announced this evening that the negotiations which are still in progress at the board of trade had taken a more favorable turn late in the day, though nothing definite in the way of settling the strike has yet been arranged.

About one-fourth of the usual number of trains were operated from Charing Cross, Victoria, Euston and Liverpool stations. There was a full service from the Waterloo station.

The steamer Philadelphia sailed this afternoon with more than one thousand passengers, a record for this period of the year. Upon the request of the post office officials, the steamer will call at Queenstown to pick up the American mail.

Sailings Suspended.
Havre, France, Aug. 19.—The steamer lines running from Havre to Manchester and Liverpool to-day suspended sailing pending the settlement of the strike in London.

MARINE INQUIRY.
Decision of Court Which Investigated Wreck of the Belcarra—Stranding of the Princess May.

Vancouver, Aug. 19.—The finding of the marine court of inquiry into the loss of the steamer Belcarra in Agamemnon channel on September 7 last, was handed down to-day by Mr. Justice Martin, with whom are associated Captains Reed and Cullington. The fact that the light usually placed on the float had been removed and that another light some 300 yards inland was visible is ascribed as the direct cause of the wreck. The court found that the compass was sluggish and to some extent justified the master, Captain Fulton, in ignoring it and trusting to local knowledge and echoes to obtain his position. The court censured Captain Fulton, however, for travelling at full speed in the fog.

The inquiry into the stranding of the Princess May opened this morning. Chief Officer Richardson, Second Officer Robson and Quartermaster Gosse were examined. The evidence went to show that the tide set the vessel in too close to Sentinel Island light, near which she was wrecked on August 5 last. Mr. Richardson declared that the usual course was steered, but that the light obscured the trees, something which he had never thought possible. A heavy haze hung over the land. The decision will be handed down on Monday.

INVESTIGATING CLAY DEPOSITS.

Vancouver, Aug. 19.—Prof. Riess, who holds the chair of geology in Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., is visiting Vancouver. He has just been commissioned by the Dominion government to make a report on the clays of British Columbia, especially in regard to their economic aspect. His investigations will cover many sections of the province. He has already visited Vancouver Island and spent yesterday at Clayburn in the lower Fraser Valley.

The professor has already reported on the clays of several other provinces, and in that special department of geology has a world-wide reputation.

HON. E. B. GARNEAU DEAD.

Quebec, Aug. 19.—Hon. E. B. Garneau died yesterday after a few days' illness with typhoid fever. He was a brother-in-law of Sir Francis Langille and a director in the Richelleu and Ontario Navigation Co., as well as a member of other big financial concerns. He was 57 years old and leaves a widow and several children.

TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION.

Members Urged Not to Patronize Chinese Laundries, Restaurants or Other Establishments.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 19.—The International Typographical Union in convention here, passed a resolution yesterday expressing as the sense of the convention that all members of the union should refuse to patronize Chinese laundries, restaurants and other establishments. Local unions are authorized to assess fines for violations. The resolution was introduced by Delegate G. M. Sheldon of Lowell, Mass.

It was voted unanimously to cancel the $5,000 note from the Hatter Union held by the Typographical Union, and to return the note with the compliments of the Typographical Union.

A proposal by Delegate L. R. Maxwell of Topeka, to take $100,000 from the old age pension fund, which is now $400,000, and use it for the erection of a permanent administration building at Indianapolis, was referred to the national executive council, to be voted on at the next general election.

The request of the Seattle union for authorization to begin the publication of an eight-page daily paper, to offset the tax which the Seattle delegates said was being made against the union in Seattle, was defeated.

A resolution was passed urging legislation requiring the maintenance of an average temperature of 70 degrees Fahrenheit in all composing rooms. A telegram from Providence, R. I., asking for the 1914 convention was read. It is believed that the vote on arbitration and piecework will be reached to-day.

DAVIS TENNIS CUP MATCHES.

New York, Aug. 19.—The English team of lawn tennis players who are to meet Americans in the semi-finals round for the Davis Cup will sail for New York next Wednesday on the Adriatic. The men are: C. P. Dixon, A. H. Lowe, and A. E. Beamish, and they will reach here about September 1.

PRESS MEN'S ITINERARY.

Arrive Here Sunday, September 10—Will Be Entertained by Board of Trade.

The British newspapermen's itinerary indicates their arrival at Victoria from Vancouver on the afternoon boat on Sunday, September 10, and their departure for Nanaimo at noon on the following day.

The local board of trade has been requested to put forth every endeavor to entertain the members whilst in Victoria, and to show them everything likely to be of interest. The matter is now in the hands of the board's reception committee.

It is unfortunate that the stay of these representative gentlemen in this city should be so much curtailed, but the board of trade, the officers of the Development League, and the local members of the Press Gallery will see that this is overcome by most assiduous attention to the guests.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By Ruth Cameron

There is a little girl in our street who rejoices in the possession of a dinky little pony and pony cart. By reason of this good fortune she is, of course, the envy, and admiration of almost every child in town. There is scarcely a child in the neighborhood who is not passionately anxious to be Dot's friend.

Except — and hereby hangs the tale — except Donald. Donald is a sturdy youngster, a little older than the other children, and he is not passionately anxious to be Dot's friend.

Both figuratively and, with the aid of her pony cart, literally, she went in the morning and offered to drive after him. She came p to his home in the morning and offered to drive him to school.

She took his sister driving. If he went to the other end of the town after school to play with other boys she drove after him and humiliated him in the presence of his comrades by urging him to get in and take a ride with her.

Crowning concession of all for her, she even offered to let him ride on the pony's back.

All this had its inevitable result — Donald being a genuine boy — that his initial liking of her soon changed into disgust and dislike.

Had Dot of the pony cart approached Donald in any other way, I think she might have won out, for she is not an unattractive little girl. But she failed so utterly because she tried to drive her pony cart over an obstacle that not even her plucky little beast could surmount — and that was the intrinsic nature of boy and man.

Thus are girls and women everywhere trying to do the same thing with wealth or popularity or beauty or some other kind of a pony cart. And if the man is a real man they almost inevitably meet with failure.

Man wants to pursue. He does not want to be pursued. Whether you like it or not you must as well make up your mind that that is a part of the cave man nature that is still left in any man's worth the name.

"They also serve who only stand and wait" was surely said for women in love or, better still, for all women at all times.

I do believe that a woman who wants a man to fall in love with her may go after him, but only in the carefully concealed way in which a hunter stalks a deer, keeping always to windward. She may manage to be at places where she will be likely to meet him. She may make herself as attractive as possible to him. She may study his tastes. But she must never let him suspect she is stalking him any more than the hunter lets the deer.

Poor little Dot of the pony cart. Sometimes I'm sorry for her, for she is a spirited little creature, and takes her defeat hard.

And then again, I'm glad for her. For, just think, she's learned now, when it must cost her so very much

EXTRACT FROM "BRITISH MEDICAL JOURNAL" March 23, 1907.

"A Most Valuable Food"

At a time when the preparation of artificial foodstuffs is receiving more attention than ever before, and when new forms of easily assimilable fat to take the place of codliver oil are being frequently brought to the notice of the medical profession, it is desirable that some of the older forms of administering natural fats should not be lost sight of.

Among natural fats, butter easily takes first place for nutritive value, and when combined with a suitable soluble carbohydrate, a most valuable food is produced.

The BUTTER SCOTCH which Messrs. Callard & Bowser (Duke's Road, Euston Road, W. C.) have prepared for fifty years, is such an article, which has the great advantage of being palatable, so palatable, in fact, that children are more likely to need restraining from excess than any persuading to take it. This BUTTER SCOTCH is stated to contain 11.2 per cent. of fat and 73.3 per cent. of sugar, and the results of an analysis which we have made recently of a specimen substantially confirm these figures; further chemical examination of the fat extracted showed it to be genuine butter fat. This concoction can therefore be recommended, not only as a harmless sweetmeat, but also as a very useful addition to the diet in suitable cases.

Two shades of wisteria were combined in the making of above costume. Satin in the darker shade is used for the narrow underskirt, while bodice and tunic are made from marquisette a few shades lighter. On the two latter, Irish insertion, dyed to match the marquisette, is elaborately used for decoration and the inevitable touch of black is given by the clever draping of a Chantilly scarf over left shoulder and finished a short waist line with gold tulle and the round neck is finished with a band of gold lace.

Although a number of men in the underground tube systems joined the strikers to-day, the companies, with the assistance of their officers and shop staffs maintained a service except on the North London Railway, an old and small concern, which suspended operations.

The other lines received many applications for work and promised to have their normal schedules in operation this afternoon.

The strikers are meeting with more success outside London. At Birmingham freight was moved to-day only with the assistance of strong forces of police and it was feared that disorders would occur.

The strike is general in Dublin, where the unions claim that eighty per cent. of the employees are out.

In West Wales there was an almost complete stoppage, while in Edinburgh and at other Scottish points the companies experienced the greatest difficulty in keeping their trains moving. Three trains for London were cancelled as the men refused to mount the locomotives.

East Lancashire was also hard hit, the railway service being disorganized. At Manchester the strike committee advised the Lord Mayor they were unable to accept responsibility for any trouble that might result from the refusal of the railway companies to pay wages to those men who had not returned their uniforms and equipments as ordered.

At many places in manufacturing districts the factories have been compelled to close because of a lack of fuel and other supplies.

The final settlement of the London dock strike further eased the situation as it insured a continuance of the food supply of the metropolis. Work went on at all the docks to-day and as the best of feeling prevails, it is felt that the adjustment will prove a permanent one.

John Burns, who led the last great strike of dockmen, went through the West Side district to-day and addressed the men at four points. He explained the agreement which he had assisted in bringing about and urged the men to observe it strictly and loyally. Then Mr. Burns hurried back to the government offices to take a hand in the negotiations with the railway men.

In London and throughout the country thousands of men responded to the call to enroll themselves as special constables. A long line stood outside the Guildhall to-day waiting in turn to be sworn in and to receive a baton and a badge.

The troops made themselves comfortable in the parks and at the railway stations and apparently were preparing to stay any length of time. During the forenoon long processions of army ambulances passed through the streets conveying supplies to the various camps.

Shipping Disarranged.

New York, Aug. 19.—Disarrangements of the schedules of the steamships due to leave this side for English ports next week resulted to-day from the strike situation in Great Britain. The steamships of the White Star, American, Atlantic Transport, Red Star and Leyland lines will have difficulty in continuing their schedules until conditions on the other side clear.

As to the next week, the delayed ships at British ports, the officers here know but little. The Cunard line is hardest hit, with the Caronia and the Lusitania halted and both booked full of returning Americans.

SENT TO JAIL.

Montreal, Aug. 19.—Judgment was rendered yesterday by Judge Leet in the case of Jules Gratton, a local labor leader, accused of intimidating workmen and preventing others from seeking employment during the progress of the carpenters' strike. Gratton was condemned to five days in jail. The judgment of the court is important, as it was given in a test case in which the whole business interests of the city are concerned as well as those of labor unions who are following the matter.

WILL NOT COME WEST.

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—Hon. Clifford Sifton, who has been here since Thursday arranging for his anti-reciprocity tour, definitely states that he does not propose to carry his campaign into the West, but will do all his speaking in eastern centres.

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—The appointment of Y. O. Highman, of Vancouver, as inspector of gas and electricity for the western division of Canada, is gazetted. The division extends from the western boundary of Ontario to the Pacific Coast.

BUSH FIRES BURNT ELECTRIC WIRES

Stoppages of B. C. Electric Company's Power Yesterday and To-day

Interruption of the power system of the B. C. Electric Company was caused yesterday afternoon by an outbreak of fire in the woods at Goldstream by which means the telegraph poles and wires which convey the power to Victoria from Goldstream were burned and the connection destroyed.

Temporary repairs were effected during the afternoon and with the rain this morning extinguishing the bush fire permanent repairs were effected.

Another stoppage in the power system occurred this morning owing to the company changing the lines near the Taylor mill, Government street, which was destroyed by fire some three weeks ago. The company did not perfect the repairs caused necessary then, until today, but the officer in charge says the company's lines are now in order.

AUTO FATALITY.

One Person Killed and Three Injured in Accident at Seattle.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 19.—Linda Hodgson was killed and three persons were injured last night when a touring car in which they were riding ran off the Spokane avenue trestle at Wyoming street and plunged to the tide flats. Mrs. C. E. Sorenson, whose husband was driving the car, was seriously hurt, and was taken to the city hospital. Glen M. Fisher and Mr. Sorenson were also injured, but not seriously.

The accident happened on the Spokane avenue trestle, which crosses the bay to West Seattle. At Wyoming street, Sorenson, who says he was unfamiliar with the roadway, which was unlighted, noticed a sharp turn to his left, and to keep the machine from striking the railing straight ahead, turned it sharply and crashed through the railing to the left. The auto fell to the tide flats fifteen feet below, and Miss Hodgson and Mrs. Sorenson were pinned under the machine. Miss Hodgson died on the way to the hospital.

Miss Hodgson, who was 20 years old, was cashier in a Seattle department store.

THIRTY INJURED.

Columbus, O., Aug. 19.—Thirty persons were injured, some seriously, to-day when Big Four train No. 46, one of the fastest trains in the service, was derailed near the Ohio state hospital for the insane, just west of Columbus. As the train rounded a curve a Grandview avenue crossing, the front trucks of the second day coach climbed a switch point and the car was derailed, the other coaches falling into the ditch.

CAMORIST CREATES SCENE.

Viterbo, Italy, Aug. 19.—Giovanna Bertolotti, one of the accused Camorrista, who for weeks while caged in the court room has been weaving an elaborate design over the bars near his seat with strips of cloth, found they had been taken off. He became furious and finally fell in a fit. When he recovered he took off his coat and shirt and tore them to pieces and remained for the rest of the session nearly naked.

HOSPITAL BOARD HAS ITS REGULAR MEETING

Water Supply Insufficient—Reports on Work During Month Are Adopted

The regular monthly meeting of the Royal Jubilee Hospital board was held last evening.

The house committee reported that owing to the heavy cost it would entail it had been decided to be impossible to go ahead with the proposed installation by the Stacpole LaMoth Co., of a fire alarm system in the hospital. It was also reported that in view of the difficulties experienced in having the telephone attended to in a satisfactory manner the committee recommended the payment of $50 per month to a suitable person to look after this work. The report was adopted.

The finance committee's report stated that the July salaries had amounted to $1545.80 and recommended the payment of accounts to the amount of $3498.83.

It also showed that the cost per patient per diem had been $2.50. An explanation of this rather unusual cost it added that a heavy expenditure had been incurred for surgical requisites, which, being deducted, placed the actual cost per patient at $2.18.

The secretary reported that, acting under the orders of the president, he had arranged for the fitting up of a laboratory for pathological and bacteriological work. The cost of this is expected to be $250.

He also stated that the water supply during this summer had been poor and advised the laying of larger pipes to replace the one inch pipes now in use.

The matron reported that five applications had been received for entry into the hospital's adult training school, that one probationer had been admitted into the hospital, and that one student, Miss Lena Boyd, had graduated as nurse.

The following statistics for July were in the secretary's report: Admissions, 99; treated, 167; discharged, 90; deaths, 14; daily average, 67.83; day's stay, 2149.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

South Bend, Wash., Aug. 19.—Fire originating in the new store of Clark & Anderson at Bay Centre destroyed all the business portion of the town except one store, early to-day. The town which is huddled around the wharf, which is partly burned, was saved from complete destruction by tearing up a section of it. The residence section of the town is on higher ground and was not damaged. The loss will amount to over $25,000.

The time used is Pacific Standard, for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, above the average level of the lowest low water in each month of the year. This level is half a foot lower than the datum to which the soundings on the Admiralty chart of Victoria harbor are reduced.

ENDORSE POLICY OF LIBERAL GOVERNMENT

Resolutions Adopted at Convention at Kamloops—Tribute to H. C. Brewster

Kamloops, Aug. 18.—At the Liberal convention here at which Dr. K. C. McDonald, of Vernon, president of the Yale-Cariboo Liberal Association, was nominated to collect the constituency, the following resolutions were adopted: "The Liberals of Yale-Cariboo, in convention assembled, place on record their unwavering loyalty to Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his government, and their appreciation of the stand taken by Sir Wilfrid Laurier at the imperial conference as representing Canadian sentiment."

"This convention endorses the policy of the Liberal party as embodied in the legislation passed since its advent to power, particularly its naval policy and the proposed reciprocity trade agreement with the United States carrying out the time-honored Liberal principle of the greatest good to the greatest number."

"This convention recognizes the able and efficient work done by H. C. Brewster, M. P. P., in the provincial legislature."

Election of officers resulted in T. W. Clingham being unanimously chosen as president; J. R. Achbald and Dr. Wade, Kamloops; J. Murphy, Cariboo; A. M. Leitch, Lillooet; A. E. Howse, Yale; D. A. MacDonald, Greenwood; T. McIntyre, Grand Forks; S. C. Smith, Okanagan, and J. M. Wright, Simlismen, as the executive.

NANAIMO ATHLETIC CLUB.

Directors Decide to Proceed at Once With Improvements.

Nanaimo, Aug. 18.—At a meeting of the board of management of the Athletic Club it was decided to immediately commence work on the improvements for which a $10,000 campaign has been waged. The amount aimed at has already been realized, but the members of the club are not content with having reached the goal, but are determined to press forward and bring the $15,000 mark near realization. The members of the club are busy canvassing these days and are meeting with success in their efforts to give Nanaimo an athletic club worthy the name.

REVOLVER FATALITY.

Stewart, Aug. 18.—That Romeo Savatlo Rossi came to his death by accidental shooting from a revolver in the hand of Vincente Adornate. And we recommend that a permit, signed by a Justice of the Peace, should be required to enable the purchase of a revolver. Such was the brief verdict of the jury at the inquest held by Coroner John Conway, Rossi, who was 25 years of age, with three other companions in the tent at Glacier Creek, were examining a new automatic revolver. Young Rossi, the owner, had withdrawn the ammunition holder and presented the gun to Adornate, telling him that it was quite safe. His companion pulled the trigger and the unknown cartridge left in the barrel sped on its deadly mission. The man was brought to the hospital where medical attendance was promptly given. The bullet passed through his stomach inflicting fatal injuries, and he died the following morning.

DEATH DUE TO NEGLIGENCE.

Vancouver, Aug. 18.—That the deceased came to his death as the result of a sawmill accident, due to his own negligence, was the verdict brought in by the jury inquiring into the death of Wong Moon, instantly killed at Cardinell's shingle mill at Point Grey. The jury further exonerated T. W. Cardinell, the owner of the mill, from all blame. The evidence of the witnesses went to show that the deceased had not observed the proper precautions in feeding a shingle into the mill. With the result that the blade of the saw bucked and broke, almost decapitating him.

Imperfect Kidney Action Causes Rheumatism

Rheumatism, with its kindred ailments—Lumbago, Wry Neck, Neuralgia, etc., usually results from lodgments of uric acid in the joints and muscles. Now the chief function of the kidneys is to properly filter this poison from the blood.

Only when they fail to do this is Rheumatism probable. Kidney weakness starts in various ways. A sudden chill, after perspiring freely, sometimes settles in the kidneys—or an unusual strain may cause it. Persons who should be filtered out of the system are pumped back into the blood, causing Uric Acid, the real cause of Rheumatism, Lumbago, Wry Neck, Neuralgia, etc.

In the early stages Nyal's Stone Root Compound will stop it. Will start your kidneys working properly so that the Uric Acid is reabsorbed and eliminated.

Always goes your Rheumatism with it. Perhaps these early warning twinges have passed, unheeded, and your Rheumatism has become deep seated. Muscles all snarled up in knots as it were.

Then you'll need Nyal's Rheumatic Cure. Ask your own druggist about these remedies.

ROYAL CITY POLICE FORCE INADEQUATE

Commissioners Deal With the Question of Alleged Gambling in Chinese Quarters

New Westminster, Aug. 18.—That the police force of New Westminster is inadequate was the opinion of the police commissioners, and they decided to augment the force by two additional officers.

Answering the mayor, Chief Bradshaw said that his staff at this time numbered nine officers and himself, and the work justified more constables. Mr. Amundale said that as a heavy ratepayer he demurred at the extra policing of the city. The present force was a credit to the city, and Chief Bradshaw deserved the thanks of the people for his organization work. The chief said that there had been 46 cases before the court in the past six months with fines amounting to $2,343.25, which was within a little of the estimated sum for the half year.

The clerk was instructed to bring the matter before the city council. It was decided to endeavor to put a stop to the gambling, which it is claimed goes on in the Chinese quarter of the town. The matter was introduced by Ald. Dodd, and after much discussion the chief of police was instructed to take action. The restricted district also came in for some discussion, and an effort will be made to stop the sale of liquor in the houses.

The question was raised about the new law lock-up, but nothing was done pending official word from Ottawa.

ROCK THROUGH ROOF.

Prince Rupert, Aug. 18.—When a blast went off in a stone mine owned by the Fortuna Mining Co., and with it fell a rock as far as the minehouse roof some distance away. It crashed through the roof and just missing the head of William Stenhouse, who was there at the time, struck him on the foot. The limb was rather severely crushed and bruised, but no bones were smashed.

Empress Theatre.

The real old time minstrels are coming. Russell and Smith bring their troupe here Monday, having been selected as the headline act for the Government street vaudeville house next week. A splendid minstrel entertainment is the best way to summarize it. Red Russell was formerly a star with Laverley's Minstrels, Primrose and West, and Lew Dockstader. Harry W. Smith, the interlocutor, was bass soloist with Leonard's minstrels, and physical development. They are fresh from European triumphs and have followed physical culture for years. Mile. Senaro is said to almost outshine her partner in feats of dexterity and strength.

To-night will be the last chance to see the Williams Stock Co. in "La Belle Marie." All this week large and enthusiastic houses have witnessed this beautiful play.

these two stars have secured the services of George T. Martin, the tenor soloist with Cohan and Harris minstrels; Joe McGee, a feature singer with Al G. Fields' popular shows; and William McKenna, the principal baritone of the Al G. Fields show. With all this talent together Manager Wisner counts the one act will fill the Empress theatre all week. They carry their own scenery.

An atmosphere of Egypt will form a contrast to the minstrel acts and no one can then say there is not variety. The Egyptian act has as sponsors Lew and Lilian Orth, whose specialty in song, dance and patter on the lines of the tourist "doing" the Pyramids, and being done in the process. The advance coming week. It is a play of English life, and was made famous by the great actor, Wilson Barrett. Slightly melodramatic, this does not mean that it has any impossible situation or lines. On the contrary, the whole plot is convincing and realistic. The comedy situations are well drawn, and Dave Williams has a chance to show his ability as a comedian.

Miss Pinkie Mullally, as the blind woman, is especially well cast, her sympathetic voice and personality showing to advantage. The child part will be played by little Miss Lilian Flisk of this city. In her rehearsing of the part she has already shown great talent.

man says it is satirical, breezy, ludicrous, and very bright. Lew and Lilian have reputations in the vaudeville business and good voices, and they never bring anything not worth while.

Again there is more variety. Franz Meisel, an artistic Austrian master of the bow, will render a repertoire of English, French, Hungarian and German music. He has a Stradivarius violin.

Mabel Howard will tread a measure or two before Empress patrons accompanied by the agile footwork of her two dancing boys. Miss Howard is said to be a charming and dainty dancer, whose individual work and costumes have become conspicuous on the present touring S. and C. bill.

More, in the distinct variety. Welds and Senaro accomplish what can be termed very gracefully the ultimate in cast. Mr. Van Dyke, the leading man, has a strong, manly character; George Sweatman is an unscrupulous villain; Arthur Cyril, a convincing lover; Byron Alden, a typical English gentleman; Miss Margaret Doyle, a sweet young English girl; Miss Ora Wolf, as cousin Ada, governess and friend; Fred Horn, a gate-keeper.

The management anticipate that "King's Evidence" will be received with even more favor than the preceding bills and have furnished appropriate scenery and stage effects for the production.

VANCOUVER ISLAND HOMES

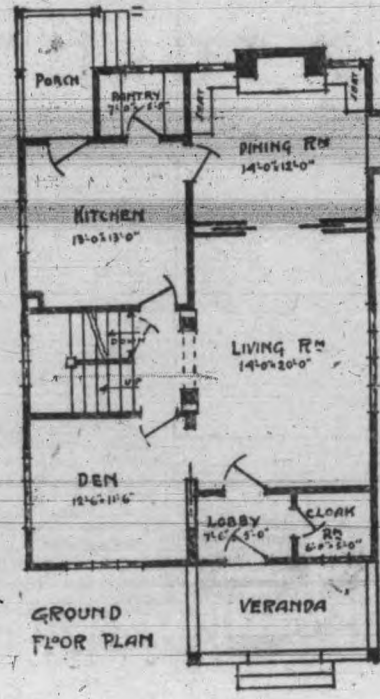

By E. Stanley Mitton

F. STANLEY MITTON ARCHITECT

FIRE PLACE IN DINING RM

GROUND FLOOR PLAN

One of the notable features of modern life is the introduction of art into the common things of everyday use. Utility is no longer the paramount claim to consideration; the importance of esthetics being recognized and, outside of our prisons and our jails, of all places, surely, those in which the refining influence of art should play an important part, the workman's cottage, embellished with as much attention to harmony of line and form as the cathedral or castle.

This was not always the case, nor were stability and permanence the ends invariably aimed at. Paul Elbert, a witty and observant Frenchman, on visiting the city of London, called many of the new houses built in the suburbs "Cardboard Villas." "Punch," whom it is always useful to consult upon these matters, says he, "represents an alarmed tenant, who has just sent for his landlord, and is showing him the dining-room wall, which has given way. The poor landlord cannot make it out; but all at once striking his forehead, he exclaims: 'Till bet somebody has been a leanin' agin it!'

We have, unfortunately, too many of these cardboard villas in our own city, although the tendency now is toward the erection of a more durable and substantial type of dwellings. In the attainment of this end, much depends upon the architect, as very frequently the owner, whose time and thought is devoted to business, is unable to inspect the work in its different stages of progress. Every part of the work of building a home should be carefully supervised, and the materials inspected. When this is done, satisfaction is assured, and the home when completed will withstand the storms of winter and the heat of summer, affording the greatest possible comfort in all seasons of the year.

The bungalow illustrated herewith is of the style typical of California, with a wide-spreading, hipped roof, a spacious entrance, and windows which afford ample light and ventilation. The exterior is well proportioned and extrêmement attractive, and the interior arrangement a remarkably convenient one.

Crossing the small veranda, we enter a lobby at the side of which is a good sized cloak room for coats, umbrellas, rubbers and such other garments as the exigencies of the season may render necessary.

From the lobby we enter the living room, which is of generous proportions for the average family, and thoroughly illuminated by four windows on one side.

In the front of the house, with windows on two sides, is the den, a room usually much favored by the male members of the family.

Back of the den are stairs leading both to the cellar and to the upper story, with a passageway leading to the kitchen.

The kitchen is of that square shape which housewives say facilitates work and renders cooking almost a pleasure. It is well lighted and ventilated, and so located as to be easy of access from both dining-room and pantry.

The dining-room in this home is worthy of special mention. It is provided with a large fireplace, with inviting window-seats at each side, as shown in the accompanying illustration. On the whole, an eminently cheerful room, calculated to banish indigestion and hypochondria, in which good digestion will wait on appetite and health on both. It has a beamed ceiling, which adds to the quaintness and charm, and a large cupboard which will come in useful for a variety of purposes.

On the upper story are three bright airy bedrooms and a bathroom.

Between the living room and the stair hall, is a beautiful archway, which serves to break the monotony of the straight lines in the interior.

This bungalow has a stone foundation, and the exterior walls are shingled. The posts in the front may be of heavy unfinished timber, which will give an attractive and pleasing rustic effect.

BUSINESS LOTS FOR BUSINESS MEN AT FORT GEORGE

The big money in real estate is made by those who buy business lots at the beginning of a city.

Knowing what you do now, if you had the opportunity of buying at prices prevailing a few years ago, you would not hesitate to buy on Hastings or Granville streets, Vancouver; Main street or Portage avenue, Winnipeg; Jasper avenue, Edmonton; or Eighth avenue, Calgary. You would not be buying at Shaughnessy Heights, Tuxedo Park or any of the outlying additions no matter how high-sounding the name or how many boulevards or parks they might have, notwithstanding the fact that lots in these additions are first-class investments—but BUSINESS LOTS FOR PROFIT.

Most people cannot afford to buy business lots in the streets mentioned above at present prices. It is possible, however, to get in at the starting point of what will be undoubtedly a place of as much importance. In making an investment in real estate the necessary thing to do is to pick out the most promising of the prospective cities and examine into their possibilities.

What are their natural advantages? After you have looked them all over and considered the good and bad points, then you will find out that—

Fort George has every natural advantage possessed by all the others combined.

One of the prospective cities will be a railroad centre.

Another has coal mines.

This one has timber lands.

Another will talk of the fine climate.

That one is the centre of an agricultural district.

Fort William and Port Arthur will talk to you about their water transportation.

Stewart will talk of her mines.

Some other places may have a great waterpower.

Fort George has them ALL.

Don't overlook this point. It means that Fort George has a combination of all the resources possessed by all the other cities of Western Canada (except that she is not an ocean port).

Fort George is the geographical and strategic commercial centre of British Columbia. British Columbia is Canada's largest and richest province.

You should know all about Fort George and British Columbia. Let us send you map plans and official information free. Send your name or call to-day. You can get in at the beginning if you hurry.

A PLEASING FORM OF NATURE STUDY

A Page for Misses

A Quiet Spot for a Bird Walk

BIRD walks in the city parks are now the most popular form of diversion for girls who love nature, and even those who do not profess a great penchant for the study soon become enthusiastic after a few trips taken under the direction of a guide or instructor into the heart of birdland. It requires not a little self-sacrifice on the part of the individual members to take the trips at the time when the feathered songsters can best be studied, but even arising at such an unusual hour as five o'clock in the morning isn't sufficient to dampen the ardor of the girls, and seldom are any of them missing at the rendezvous, which is usually the Museum of Natural History at Seventy-eighth street and Central Park West.

But it isn't all love's labor lost, for there is ample compensation for the sacrifice, for even though lazy humans are still asleep, all bird life is awake, and even as the party approaches the Park come the splendid strains of the bird orchestra trilling their matins to heaven. The early dew lies thick on leaf and flower, and the grass, reached by the rays of the early sun, suddenly becomes a myriad of crystal lights. Who would remain in bed when such wonders await the early riser?

And—"Oh, look, there's a thrush. Do you hear it, girls?" softly calls out the instructor. "Do you hear that deep mellow note and see the modest brown gown?" But even as the class turns to look the bird, startled by the appearance of strange folk within his sacred precincts, has taken wing and flown away.

This first failure emphasizes the instructor's warning against unnecessary noise or movement, for the breaking of twig, the crunching of the gravel beneath the feet, and the timid warbler is off and away.

Noisily the group threads the by-paths of the West Drive and soon strikes in to the more secluded portions of the park. There is no danger of molestation, for there is in hand the permit issued by Commissioner Stover that allows any straying from the people's route into the more remote recesses of the big reservation where the birds congregate in greater numbers than in the sections more frequented by the public.

This fact has led to some rather exciting experiences, such, for example, as being chased by the Park policemen, who, not unreasonably, see in the coteries of bird enthusiasts only disobedience to law. Such adventures are always relished by the members of the class, who feel very proud to be able to exert their right of free access to all parts of the grounds.

WHILE Central Park has been the destination for most of the bird parties, many trips have been taken to other wooded points in the vicinity of the city where birds nest in goodly numbers. For so many different varieties spend the summer in and about New York that the opportunity to become familiar with them and their habits is almost unlimited. In fact, ornithologists assert that more than two hundred species are to be seen in Central Park alone during the season, and anywhere from forty to sixty species nest there.

So it has come to be the custom for bird lovers about Manhattan to go there to study, and nearly every morning parties of six or eight girls, young and old, as well as children with their instructors, may be seen "robber shooting" in search of their prey, though it is a bloodless battle that is being waged, and the birds, if they did but know it, have nothing to fear.

Some Simple Suggestions for Girls Who Sew.

BELTS AND GIRDLES.

GIVEN the ability to run a sewing machine with the same degree of straightness as does a tailor, any girl may quickly make for herself an indefinite number of the belts and girdles that add so much smartness to a summer frock. The prettiest of morning belts are of plain heavy linen, slightly wider and shaped to the figure at the back and trimmed with four quarter inch stitched bands, which give a tucked effect running the entire length of the strip. This belt looks best when fastened with a pearl buckle of the harness order.

Four inch wide belts of the firm but flexible Japanese white grass linen are usually hand embroidered in a white chrysanthemum design and if expense need not be considered should fasten with one of the Japanese "good luck" buckles of solid silver.

Another smart type of belt, however, must be cleared with naphtha, is a two and a half inch wide strip of white glee kid, stitched twice along the edges and secured with a kid covered cardboard buckle of trunk shape. The same model in dull finished cherry colored kid is very new and very stunning and goes well with a white linen tennis blouse and skirt or with a white flannel, yachting frock.

Each wide alternating strips of kid and satin stitched to a silk foundation compose a striking looking belt that is easy to make, since no buckle is needed, for the two ends hook beneath a pump bow of kid and satin. These belts are dainty in white with cerise or green or dull blue and in two tones of brown.

Reverable belts of white kid on one side and dark colored moire on the other have hooks imbedded at the extremely pointed edge of one end and these fit into small and almost invisible eyes of silk twisted set several inches from the edge of the other end of the strip.

A band of Japanese embroidered silk may be made into an exceedingly effective looking belt by binding it with kid and attaching to one end a kid strap that will run through a metal ring and a second strap attached to the other end. Or a strip of Japanese brocade, gold on black or dark blue, may be stitched with gold thread, lined with cloth of gold and fastened at the back under an old bow.

OUTING WAISTS. OUTING waists are of such infinite variety this season and all of them are of such simple character that any girl who means to spend the greater portion of her time on tennis court or golf links should begin immediately to make up an assortment of these useful and trim little garments.

An outing waist of sunproof madras which is a very wide material and comes in the most fascinating shades of plain olive, blue, rose, coral, red or green, was made recently by a girl within two hours of time and was wholly of machine work, with the exception, of course, of the buttonholes and the sewing on of the buttons. This rapidly put together outing waist had but four seams, two of them running from the throat to the bottom of the three-quarter kimono sleeves and two starting from under the arms and running to the belt. The neck was finished with a pointed back sailor collar many shades darker than the waist and the kimono sleeves had turned back band cuffs of the same material.

For exceedingly hot weather there is no more comfortable outing waist than one made of white handkerchief linen. The prettiest model of this order has a wide plait at the centre of the front, the regulation shirt back and three-quarter sleeves, but it gains character and distinction from its sailor collar, wide cuffs and broad front plait of striped black and white, blue and white or pink and white linen. Another shirt waist which is exceedingly smart when developed in all linen shirting has five quarter inch tucks crossing the shoulders and a single half inch tuck at each side of these groups, making a wide plain box at the front. This garment closes at one side under a wide band of plain colored linen similar to that which tailor finishes the square neck and the short, rather wide and straight set in sleeves.

A garment which greatly resembles a Norfolk jacket is among the newest of the so-called outing shirts designed especially for girls. Worn outside of the skirt and extending far over the hips, it has wide plaits crossing the shoulders, fronts closing under a side box plait and straight, full length sleeves. With it are worn a red, green, blue, black or brown patent leather "harness" belt and a sailor collar and wide cuffs of taffeta of the same shade as the belt.

The girl who makes her own outing waists, either because she loves to sew or because she must needs economize, should remember that it is positively necessary to have a good pattern of whatever model is to be copied, and that if she is not absolutely sure of doing her machine stitching evenly she would better depend upon adjustable tailored shirt waist sets, which include a soft collar, four-hand tie and belt of silk, satin, linen or madras.

POPULAR DUTCH COLLAR. A GIRL who enjoys doing dainty needlework can make for herself some exquisite little Dutch collars by getting her mother or grandmother to give her a few odds and ends of fine old lace and hand embroidery. There are often small pieces of old lace and embroidery that their owner cannot find any use for and yet they are really too handsome to throw away. These are just what is wanted for the Dutch collar. It is very much the fashion nowadays to combine several kinds of lace and embroidery, using them as medallions or small connecting pieces of insertion.

To make one of these collars a girl should first make a design on a piece of muslin which will give a good effect with what pieces she has, then baste them on and fill in the spaces with fine handkerchief linen and beading. It requires careful sewing, but that is something that many girls of today can do extremely well, and this kind of work is very fascinating. It is not always necessary to make the entire design at first. The most important pieces may be basted on the muslin and the rest of the design worked out gradually. Any number of things may be used in one collar if the whole effect is artistic.

ing to despoil their nests, so if you see a bird suddenly dart up from the meadow or a spot near the ground, don't be too sure you have discovered her hiding place, for the mother is strong in the instinct of self-preservation, and will fly low for many rods before mounting into the air in order to distract the attention from her real nesting place.

At this point there is a call to halt, and in a delightful, shady nook near the supporting arches of a rustic bridge the bird enthusiasts throw themselves down on the ground, surrounding their instructor, taking pains meanwhile to keep their eyes and ears open to detect the presence of secure the light, that they are to be seen in great numbers.

"Not all the birds that come here stay," she tells her girls, "for many pass on to the North, preferring the cooler localities away from big cities, but, strange to say, nearly all arrive the same time each year, that is, the birds of certain species do."

For example, by March 10 it is pretty safe to say you will see the robin, the bluebird, the red winged blackbird and the song sparrow coming to town smartly garbed in their new spring raiment. This hardy quartet must meet with very untoward conditions in the shape of blizzards and cold rains to prevent their appearance on the dot. Their arrival is apt to be followed by many a cold snap, when our sympathies are aroused for their safety, but they usually survive, and in the meantime cheer folks in their vicinity by the assurance that spring is close at hand, if not already here. Other species have their time of arrival and departure quite as definitely fixed, and though it may vary a little now and then the date is adhered to strictly enough to prove the rule.

It is a most valuable acquisition for bird students, the collection at the museum, for there the nests can be studied at close range, and the splendid achievements of the various birds in house building are seen to best advantage. The robin, with his substantial nest of clay and grasses; the mason swallow, with his light little home of mud and leaves beneath the eaves, and the woodpecker, who, a carpenter, bores his nest from the trunks of trees, are all shown, as well as the birds who provide hair mattresses and down quilts for their babies.

On the Track of the Purple Grackle's Nest

As a rule the novice in bird study starts to pick out certain species by the plumage or by selecting some distinguishing mark of the individual bird, but it is best, first of all, to note the distinguishing marks common to one family and then work out the details afterward. And so far as the plumage goes this is by no means infallible, for the garments of the male and female bird are generally different, and many birds change their dress twice a year.

In addition, notice the size and shape of the bill to decide whether the bird belongs to the seed cracking or the insect feeding tribes. Again, those which feed on the ground and those perching high in trees will as a rule belong to quite different families.

Listen to the notes of the bird. Nearly every family has a different language, and each individual member will have a call of its own. Note also the quality of the bird voices. If high and thin they are apt to belong to the sparrow family; if low and deep toned, to the thrush, and so on. Do you know the note of the bobolink, who arrived in town the middle of May? If you once heard his "Tink, tink" high in the air as he passes along in his flight you would never confound it with that of any bird of the same species.

It is an interesting thing to know that birds travel by special routes, which are quite as well defined as any laid by man. The Grand Trunk route for the bobolink is via Florida. It is his port of entry as well as departure en route to and from Cuba, Jamaica and Puerto Rico. Others have equally well defined routes over which they travel year after year with no apparent deviation, arriving and leaving at about the same date and always flying in the same formation.

After the first week in May, when the birds pair off and begin nesting, they grow more timid. In one way this demands greater diligence on the part of the bird lover to detect their whereabouts, in another it is the ideal time for bird walks, for the nest building and fam-any of the feathered tribe whose haunts they are tracking.

It is a bright, clear day, ideal, so the bird instructor says, for study, "for birds keep in the open, preferring sunshine to shadow; so it is on just such days as this, when the sun rides high and so clouds ob-with which some of the birds greet their new found friends whom they have come to know since the bird season opened about March 10.

Along back in 1890 the Natural History Museum liberated some thirty pairs of starlings in Central Park, and many of them have remained there, multiplying in large numbers. They are capable of being tamed, and some of these same birds are made great pets of by bird lovers who frequent the Park.

The question of dress for these studying birds is somewhat of an important one, and in order to present so startling contrast gowns of brown or green, are worn, so that at a distance they melt into the picture and become genuinely a part of the landscape, so that only the movement of the party indicates its nature.

Armed with opera glasses and note books, the latter to jot down stray bits of information, bird lovers picked up from experience, the girls pursue their quest and soon become familiar with a host of fascinating facts of bird life: Not only the language of the birds is learned and the notes, whether of joy or distress, defined, but they become familiar with the domestic life of the feathered tribes and learn of their splendid maternal and paternal characteristics, from all of which, by the way, the instructor frequently "points a moral and adorns a tale," and the comparison drawn in not always complimentary to the human mother and housekeeper.

As the party follows the route skirting a big patch of rhododendrons, a purple grackle suddenly flies out and scolding the while at the intrusion into her sacred precincts, whereupon Miss Alice Ingalls, the instructor, takes occasion to explain that not necessarily does the bird have a nest close by, as might be imagined.

BIRDS, she explains, "instinctively use every ruse imaginable to protect their young from the enemy. They are wary of any one seeking to despoil their nests, so if you see a bird suddenly dart up from the meadow or a spot near the ground, don't be too sure you have discovered her hiding place, for the mother is strong in the instinct of self-preservation, and will fly low for many rods before mounting into the air in order to distract the attention from her real nesting place."

As the lecture draws to a close the girls arouse themselves, eager to obtain a more intimate acquaintance with an arbor of purple and white wistaria, about which many ruby throated humming birds are hovering. Just at the moment a handsome bird in orange and black flashed by, lighting on the branch of a tall tree, few rods away. He disappeared for an instant into a deep, pouchlike nest swinging between two branches. Swiftly he makes his exit, stops for one burst of song and off he flies in search of more food for his patient little wife, whom we know is guarding the nest.

"A Baltimore oriole," the girls exclaim in one breath, for, though unfamiliar with the rich, flute-like note of the handsome feathered creature, they know the nest and plumage from the exhibit at the museum, where in the early spring a series of lessons preceded the bird walks in the park.

It is a most valuable acquisition for bird students, the collection at the museum, for there the nests can be studied at close range, and the splendid achievements of the various birds in house building are seen to best advantage. The robin, with his substantial nest of clay and grasses; the mason swallow, with his light little home of mud and leaves beneath the eaves, and the woodpecker, who, a carpenter, bores his nest from the trunks of trees, are all shown, as well as the birds who provide hair mattresses and down quilts for their babies.

SOMETIMES the bird walks extend to Prospect Park, Brooklyn, where more than one hundred species of birds nest every year. Among the number are the robin, thrush, red eyed vireo, warbling vireo, black belted cuckoo, yellow billed cuckoo, cat bird, house wren, yellow warbler, flicker, down headed woodpecker, chimney swift, scarlet tanager, wood pewee, crow, starling, oriole and purple grackle.

Again, the class will invade the very heart of New York's commercial and business section, where in the churchyard of old St. Paul's some forty species of birds have been seen, or they will take the subway up to Fort Washington Park, where, besides the more common feathered friends, will be found many curious strangers who make it a half-way house en route to Canada. Miss Ingalls takes the opportunity on her bird walks of teaching her girls how to know the trees, for nature study of this sort seems particularly appropriate in connection with that of ornithology.

Interest in bird study has increased so much in the last few years that a summer course is given at Cold Spring Harbor. It is under the auspices of the biological laboratory of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Science. The course consists of twenty lessons and daily excursions for field identification are taken. During the six weeks beginners, it is said, can become more or less familiar with some sixty specimens of nesting birds.

At Cornell there is a regular course in bird study now which finds many enthusiasts to enjoy it and there are in the city a number of Cornell graduates who make a specialty of giving bird talks and walks to select numbers of society girls and young children.

After the first week in May, when the birds pair off and begin nesting, they grow more timid. In one way this demands greater diligence on the part of the bird lover to detect their whereabouts, in another it is the ideal time for bird walks, for the nest building and fam-any of the feathered tribe whose haunts they are tracking.

It is a bright, clear day, ideal, so the bird instructor says, for study, "for birds keep in the open, preferring sunshine to shadow; so it is on just such days as this, when the sun rides high and so clouds ob-with which some of the birds greet their new found friends whom they have come to know since the bird season opened about March 10.

Along back in 1890 the Natural History Museum liberated some thirty pairs of starlings in Central Park, and many of them have remained there, multiplying in large numbers. They are capable of being tamed, and some of these same birds are made great pets of by bird lovers who frequent the Park.

The question of dress for these studying birds is somewhat of an important one, and in order to present so startling contrast gowns of brown or green, are worn, so that at a distance they melt into the picture and become genuinely a part of the landscape, so that only the movement of the party indicates its nature.

Armed with opera glasses and note books, the latter to jot down stray bits of information, bird lovers picked up from experience, the girls pursue their quest and soon become familiar with a host of fascinating facts of bird life: Not only the language of the birds is learned and the notes, whether of joy or distress, defined, but they become familiar with the domestic life of the feathered tribes and learn of their splendid maternal and paternal characteristics, from all of which, by the way, the instructor frequently "points a moral and adorns a tale," and the comparison drawn in not always complimentary to the human mother and housekeeper.

As the party follows the route skirting a big patch of rhododendrons, a purple grackle suddenly flies out and scolding the while at the intrusion into her sacred precincts, whereupon Miss Alice Ingalls, the instructor, takes occasion to explain that not necessarily does the bird have a nest close by, as might be imagined.

BIRDS, she explains, "instinctively use every ruse imaginable to protect their young from the enemy. They are wary of any one seek-

OBITUARY RECORD

The funeral of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Renouf took place from the family residence, 1254 Gladstone avenue, this afternoon at 2:30, and fifteen minutes later from St. Barnabas' church. Services were conducted by Rev. E. G. Miller. The attendance of friends was exceptionally large, and a carriage was necessary to carry the many beautiful floral pieces to the graveside. The members of local Eastern Star Lodge attended in a body. The pallbearers were: Capt. H. Parsons, W. Dick, A. Gillen, A. Stewart, A. Pender and F. Rutherford. Interment was made in Ross Bay cemetery.

The remains of the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Baker, who died at the St. Joseph's hospital yesterday morning, took place from the Victoria Undertaking Parlors at 10:30 this morning. Interment was made at Ross Bay.

The funeral of the late James Elsworth took place from the family residence, 942 King's road, yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Many friends were present. The floral tributes were numerous. The Rev. W. McRae, of Vancouver, officiated. The pallbearers were: J. Woodward, H. E. Munday, J. Fairall, J. G. Allen, R. Barr and G. D. Ramsay. Interment was made in the Ross Bay cemetery.

Hubert Keast, a well known Vancouver Island livery man, died at Cowichan Lake on Wednesday after a brief illness. Deceased was a native of Victoria and was the son of the late Arthur Keast, former Court Registrar. For many years he had been engaged in the livery business between Nanaimo and Victoria, but latterly had been conducting the Pioneer Livery stable at Duncan, whence he operated the Keast stage line to Cowichan Lake. The late Mr. Keast was born in 1870. He leaves a widow at Cowichan Lake, a mother and two sisters, Misses Barbara and Bertha, of Seattle, and Miss Ada Keast, of this city, to mourn his death. The funeral, which was held under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity at Duncan, took place at 10:30 yesterday morning from Masonic hall, Duncan, and later from St. Peter's church, Quamichan. Services were conducted by Rev. F. G. Christmas.

The funeral of the late Stephen Allen Spencer took place from the family residence, 1222 Yates street, yesterday afternoon at 2:30. Services were conducted by Rev. T. E. Holling. There was an extremely large attendance of friends and the abundance of floral pieces sent amply testified to the widespread grief caused by Mr. Spencer's death. The pallbearers were: W. Stevens, W. Skillen, L. U. Conyers, R. Porter, S. Chamberlain, and F. W. Ella. Interment was made at Ross Bay.

PLAY AT VANCOUVER.

Terminal City Junior Champions Want Game With Victoria on Labor Day.

The East Ends, of Vancouver, and a team composed of local juniors will, in all probability, play a lacrosse game in Vancouver on Labor Day for the championship of British Columbia and gold medals, which are being presented by the Vancouver Exhibition Association.

The East Ends have captured the championship of Vancouver and have written over asking if Victoria can get together a team to play them on Labor Day.

A practice of all local lacrosse players, under 18 years of age, has been called for to-morrow at the North Ward park for the purpose of picking a team.

The Boy Scouts Band gave a concert in the North Ward park this afternoon, commencing at 2:30. There was a large attendance of the public.

Two Slavonians, Benzon and Trovich, were charged this morning with robbing an Indian of $25. The evidence against them was not considered conclusive, and as they denied the charge and gave a good account of themselves, they were discharged.

Rocco Molr, the Italian sentenced to serve three years in the penitentiary for having stolen jewelry in his possession, was sentenced to an additional two years this morning on a charge of having a stolen gold watch in his possession. When arrested his abode was searched and the police found four watches and four chains, besides other goods, there.

Cecil B. Case, M. I. C. E., the English engineer who designed the plans for the Ross Bay sea wall about to be built, is now associated with the Pacific Coast Construction company, which is at present constructing the Dallas Road sea wall. Another English engineer of note who is being retained by this company is Percy Collins.

BRITAIN FAVORS RECIPROCITY PACT

AND ANNEXATION CRY IS ALL PURE NONSENSE

Is Opinion of Sir John Barker, Bart, One of England's Merchant Princes

"No one in the United Kingdom attaches any weight to the cry raised by the Conservative party in Canada that annexation is the result of reciprocity. Such a thing is all nonsense, and I suppose it is raised here as an election cry in just the same way as various issues are prominently brought up in the old land on similar occasions. The reciprocity is a matter of business, nothing else."

So said Sir John Barker, Bart., chairman of J. Barker & Company, London, one of the largest firms in the way of departmental stores, existing in any part of the world. Sir John is staying at the Empress, and goes to-morrow to Vancouver.

As one of the leading English business men of the present day Sir John Barker is in a position to speak authoritatively in regard to large matters of trade, and how they would be regarded from the standpoint of what in addition to his position as the head of his firm, and chairman of Paquin, of Paris and London, he has been a member of the British House of Commons, having been elected as Liberal member for Maidstone, Kent, in 1900, and later, in 1906, he was elected as an alderman in the first London County Council, that most democratic and business-like of civic administration bodies.

A definite opinion on reciprocity from a man of the standing of Sir John Barker is therefore entitled to the highest respect, not only at the hands of any Conservative of this country who may be halting between two opinions, but because it is proof that the people of the United Kingdom do not in any way share the wild-cat views which Canadian Conservative speakers, and leaders, and some ill-informed Imperialists of the Old Country, are throwing out broadcast as to the dangers in reciprocity from the bogey of annexation. If there was any foundation for the alleged danger the men in England especially might be expected to be more alive to it even than the men in Canada, for an anxiety of this kind if it really existed at all, would, it can easily be understood, be even more likely to cause alarm in Great Britain than in the Dominion.

"Of course I am in favor of reciprocity between Canada and the United States," continued Sir John emphatically during an interview he accorded to the Times. "Why not? Is it for the common good? Of course it is. What Canada should do is to develop her natural resources on free-trade lines, by doing which everything would not cost the people double, as being any amount of capital into the country. After that you could go on manufacturing. At present the farmer has to pay the price of protection in everything, and gets nothing back. Your wealth comes from the land, and development of its natural resources should be the first thing."

"Reciprocity would be a good thing both for Canada and for the United States. Tariffs are up to such a pitch that they handicap enterprise. The British have never, as Liberals, seen anything but good of this reciprocity measure, and we consider it must be of benefit to both countries."

"The Conservatives here, and all over the country, Sir John said, the times man, 'are suggesting that reciprocity would inevitably mean fusion with the United States, are raising the cry 'disloyalty,' and are trying to lead the people to believe that reciprocity would mean severance from the British Empire. Is that the impression they have of the matter in England?"

Sir John laughed. "Most certainly not," he said. "Naturally these opponents of reciprocity must have some kite to fly. They must be provided with some attractive battle cry which is likely to catch and attract the attention of the unthinking part of the electorate, and in Canada, than which no part of the British Empire beyond the seas is more loyal, such a slogan might readily be considered an attractive weapon to slay the innocents. Why, when Lloyd George brought out his proposals for the great benefit of the people were not the Liberals called all the blackguards on the face of the earth? All those unwarranted suggestions have disappeared now, and if, as I presume will be the case, reciprocity is passed, all the unworthy arguments which are now being used here will be speedily forgotten."

"Reciprocity is a business matter, pure and simple. It is nothing else, and will lead to nothing else that need alarm the people of Canada. It is not necessary to absorb a country because of the making of a commercial treaty. Reciprocity is a very good thing, and will be a splendid thing for Canada. The people at home, except a few extremists, do not have any fears about it leading to annexation. The business men over there consider it as it is, a business matter, and will be glad to see it pass. Why should not Canada trade with her neighbor? The whole thing is simply a matter of trade for the common good."

"The cry of annexation is childish; absolutely insane. I look on the measure as purely a political matter. You always get some cry of that sort, in some shape or other, when you go in for reform. This is now the case in regard to Canada. But even if reciprocity did not please you, you could give it up by giving a year's notice. What can be a greater advantage to Canada than to be able to try it?"

"Of course the Tories in England are nettled, because it knocks the bottom out of tariff reform which is the only plank in their platform at the present time. English people would never do anything so suicidal as to tax their own food when free-trade has proved such a blessing to them, and has placed England at the head of every country in the world. It is quite a wonder to me that the Conservatives are arguing against reciprocity, seeing that they themselves so long and so strenuously advocated it, and, as I understand, their great chieftain, Mr. MacDonald, was in election on that policy some twenty years ago."

Sir John Barker concluded by stating that England was ready to further help the overseas dominions financially, and that what Canada wanted, which the United States could not render, was financial help. England had advanced money to Canada at a lower rate of interest than she had done to any other nation in the world, having already advanced Canada $500,000, and being willing to advance a further $500,000. At the time of the financial panic in 1907 the United States, he said, "were glad to borrow $30,000,000 from Great Britain at 5 per cent, and England had never charged the overseas dominions more than 3 1/2 per cent. He could not see, from any point of view, why anyone should think that Canada would ever be so mad as to even remotely contemplate cutting itself from the Empire, to go to the United States, and he did not believe that reciprocity, or anything else, would ever lead them to do it."

Sir John, who was created a baronet in 1908 for distinguished services to commerce and in parliament, is here at the Empress, a pleasure, and a member of a syndicate which owns property both at Vancouver and at New Westminster (buying the latter last year, for $500,000), and negotiations are at present in progress in regard to the working of the property near Vancouver, which covers some twenty-seven miles. He is acquainted with Victoria, and was full of admiration for its beautiful buildings and the particularly representative old-home character of its surroundings. Altogether the province appeals to him greatly, as he is a devotee of shooting, which, with horse-breeding and husbandry, are his chief recreations. He is president of the Royal Agricultural Society of England, the Hackney Horse and Hunters' Improvement Societies, and the Polo Pony Society.

RADIUM INSTITUTE.

London, Aug. 19.—Next Monday is to be a red letter day in the calendar of medical history. It marks the opening of the radium institute. The institute was the scheme of the late King Edward, and the latest work in the medical world.

It has over $250,000 worth of radium at its disposal, is fitted with the most expensive and effective medical instruments known to science and will employ a staff of physicians whose names are known to the medical profession of all countries.

Chief among the wonders of this remarkable place is the vast quantity of radium that has been accumulated for use in scientifically treating diseases. This accumulation will enable tests never before tried in medical history and as the chief aim of the new hospital is research, there is every probability that science will be materially advanced as a result of its work.

The institute will be worked in direct connection with the medical profession and all applications for admittance must come from a doctor. The poor will be treated free of charge, the well-to-do will pay in accordance with their means. In both cases the care and attention bestowed will be identical.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Among the Churches

THE OUTLOOK.

Pleasing Presentation.—A very interesting letter was received at the headquarters of the Presbyterian church in Toronto, from the Japanese consul-general at Ottawa, and the accompanying parcel contained three silver cups sent by the Japanese government as a token of appreciation of the help extended by the Presbyterian church to the famine sufferers in Japan six years ago. The cups were addressed to Dr. Warden who was the agent of the church at that time. A document in Japanese and a translation were enclosed. The translation is as follows: "Count T. Doku, president of the Imperial Bureau of Decorations, has the pleasure of presenting to the Rev. Alexander Warden, representative of the Presbyterian church in the city of Toronto, one set of silver cups in appreciation of his contribution of $1,211 to the relief fund for the sufferers from that famine which took place in 1905 in the northeastern three prefectures in Japan."

Laymen's Missionary Movement.—Conventions and banquets under the auspices of the Laymen's Missionary Movement had been held and repeated in all of the principal cities and thriving centres of the world. It is not often that such conventions have been carried to the outposts of civilization, hence we venture to suggest that the missionary conference now in session at Port Simpson is unique in this regard. It also has large significance in that it is among the first attempts to hold such a convention among Indian people and the white missionaries associated with them. The Indians of our northern B. C. coast, however, are highly intelligent, and many of them are well versed in the fine arts. All this speaks volumes to their credit and to the missionaries who have labored so unselfishly among them, because we need to bear in mind that fifty years ago the Indians were still in heathenism and savagery. Of course the nearer they approach our own standard of culture and refinement, the pace of progress becomes slower by the very nature of the case, but what can we not expect in the other, twenty-five years' time when fifty years have accomplished so much? Several of the veteran Indian missionaries as well as those who are just throwing their lives into the work, journeyed north to be in attendance at this convention. They were accompanied by Rev. A. E. Roberts, president of B. C. conference of the Methodist church and by Rev. T. Egerton Shore, M.A., B.D., general secretary of the Methodist Missionary Society of Canada. Great anticipation is felt for a memorable convention. The Rev. G. H. Raley is the missionary at Port Simpson, to whom the convention is largely due.

An Old Landmark.—A few days ago there was at Pictou, Ont., a unique demonstration to mark the taking over for future preservation of the historic chapel of Hay Bay, the first church built in Upper Canada. It was erected in the summer of 1792 under the direction of William Loece, pioneer Methodist minister in Canada, the first itinerant Methodist preacher. It was enlarged and rebuilt in 1834 and used until 1890, since which it has fallen into disuse. The last general conference, however, voted to have this cradle of Methodism bought back and preserved as a relic.

ANGELICAN.

St. James'.

The Ladies' Guild of St. James' church is busy in preparing for its annual lawn party, which is to be given on Wednesday, August 23, in the beautiful grounds of Mrs. M. R. Smith on Dallas road. No pains are being spared to make it an enjoyable afternoon and evening. An orchestra will be in attendance, and an open air concert will be one of the attractive features of the party.

St. Barnabas.

Confirmation Class.—The Lord Bishop of Columbia has consented to hold a confirmation at St. Barnabas church on Sunday, October 8.

PRESBYTERIAN.

First Church.

Choir Picnic.—A very sociable company journeyed to "White Lady," Esquimalt Harbor, last Friday, for the purpose of celebrating the annual choir picnic. The usual games were indulged in, in addition to a very enjoyable launch ride around the harbor in which the various ship typhs at anchor were visited and treated to the soft strains so proverbially charming. The number participating in the outing was somewhat less than had been expected, but a real happy time was spent.

ENGLISH LUTHERAN.

Grace Church.

Sunday School Picnic.—Fisher's Point, Esquimalt, presented a gay and busy spectacle on Wednesday last when the children of the Sabbath school, together with their parents, made it their rendezvous for their annual picnic. Several children who hitherto have had no Sunday school connection were present by invitation and enjoyed, just as much as any of the others, the races and other amusements provided.

Congregation Disappointed.—The congregation have been expecting to have Rev. Dr. Frick of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, in the capacity of lecturer and preacher, but were awaiting a definite date when Dr. Frick arrived ahead of his letter containing dates, and hence the congregation were ignorant of his presence in town and were thus disappointed of their lecture. While here Dr. Frick received a wire calling him home to attend to urgent business in connection with the general council of the Lutheran Church of America, so this prevented his remaining for the Sunday services.

Visit of Rev. Sirgurdson.—Next Sunday the Rev. Sirgurdson, of Seattle, is expected to preach morning and evening. Mr. Sirgurdson is quite an able preacher, and although he has been engaged in political circles he has also kept his pulpit work going. He is an old college chum of the pastor's (Rev. W. Drahn), both have attended the Chicago theological seminary. Mrs. S. Thompson will render a solo at the evening service.

BAPTIST.

Emanuel.

Sunday Services.—On Sunday morning the sermon will be preached by Rev. Ernest Chase, B.A., B.D., missionary designate of India. In the evening Rev. William Stevens will preach on "The End of the World: When and How?" Strangers are welcomed. All seats are free.

First Church.—It is expected that Rev. Charles Durden of Leeds, Kansas, will be the preacher at tomorrow's services. Rev. Mr. Durden has been in this city for a number of years prior to entering the ministry and his visit is looked forward to with interest and anticipation by many friends.

S. S. Teachers.—On the last Tuesday evening of this month there will be an important meeting of the teachers and workers of the home Sunday school. The question of grading the school will be taken up in connection with other important business, and it is hoped that all interested will reserve that evening for this purpose.

Missionaries Visit.—Plans are now in the making looking to interesting afternoon and evening meetings to be addressed by Rev. and Mrs. A. A. McLeod, returned missionaries from the foreign country in India. These meetings are being arranged to take place in the month of September and definite date and place of meeting will be announced in later issues.

METHODIST.

Metropolitan.

Epworth League Social.—The social held on Monday evening in connection with the Epworth League of the Metropolitan church was one of the most successful events of its kind during the season. The attendance of young people was large, many of the new comers to the church being present. After a literary programme, the evening was spent in games, contests, etc. An old fashioned spelling-bee furnished much amusement and interest. Refreshments were served at the close.

Women's Auxiliary.—The local auxiliary of the Women's Missionary Society will meet in the league room at the church on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A full attendance is desired.

Sunday School Elections.—Among other important business which the Sunday School Committee of Management carried through at its business meeting this week, was the election of Horace T. Knott to the position of Superintendent of the School. Mr. Knott has held the worthy position on a previous occasion, and only relinquished it when he removed to Vancouver. Now that he has returned to take up residence in the city he has been requested to take up his old task more. For the past two years the superintendent's desk has been occupied by W. E. Stenland, who has reflected great credit to himself and much usefulness to the school. A complimentary resolution to this effect was carried unanimously, and in reply Mr. Stenland bore testimony to the unalloyed efficiency and loyalty of the staff who had supported him, and was to them and not to himself that the credit of the work done was due.

In taking up his desk Mr. Knott brings with him several years of ripe experience in this department of the church's activities. He is perhaps best known by his enthusiastic interest in the Adult Bible Class movement, having been the leader of a very large class known as the "Adult Bible Class" in Vancouver. A very successful full year is anticipated for Mr. Knott and his helpers.

Gift of Organ.—There are many ways in which the missionary question receives an answer at the hands of the Christian church. Some give their lives, some their time, others their money, while again gifts varying between disused wardrobes to complete and up-to-date libraries are passed on to supplement the work of the missionary. This time it is an organ, which though replaced by a more costly machine, is by no means disqualified from taking its place among the sweetest of instruments used to-day in the services of worship. The donors are the trustees of the Metropolitan church, who have handed over as a gift, the organ which has just recently been replaced in that church by the beautiful instrument which is the admiration of Victoria. The gift has been made so that the new church now in course of erection at Prince Rupert might be furnished with adequate means for supplying the best of music. This latest and farthest flung addition to the long line of Methodist churches stretching from East to West of our broad dominion has had many difficulties to meet and still has a huge task before it, and it is well and fitting that an old established church is able and willing to help in such a practical manner as the Metropolitan Church has done in presenting the organ to our friends at Prince Rupert.

Sunday's Services.—The pastor will be the preacher morning and evening to-morrow. The subject for the morning's discourse will be "The Swellings of Jordan," a study in a further phase of Jeremiah's character. In the evening the title will be "The Triple Alliance of Some Forces Making for International Conciliation."

Belmont Avenue Sunday School.—Through the efforts of the Berean Bible class a very enjoyable time was spent at the Old Men's Home on Wednesday evening. The president, Mr. Crook, was chairman. The following was the programme: Reading, Mr. Wellwood; violin solo, Mrs. B. K. Hardwick; instrumental quartette, Messrs. Staples and Mrs. B. K. Hardwick; reading, Mr. E. E. Hardwick. After the programme, refreshments were served in the dining room.

Woman's Auxiliary.—The "Sherwood" Woman's Auxiliary will meet in Belmont Avenue Sunday School in regular session on Tuesday next at 3 o'clock.

James Bay.—Sunday School Activity.—The Sabbath school at James Bay church is steadily alive to its responsibility and is seeking to acquire itself worthily. The management of the school deprecate any forced attendance on the part of the scholars, because it does not produce the best type of material to work with. Their idea is to make the school such an institution which, as an advisory body, when once tried always used. From now on each class in the school is to have its own peculiar name, and its own distinctive pennant. This is found to provide a fund of interest for the scholars, who are coming to the school in steadily increasing numbers, which fact speaks for itself. That this school is not a "girls' school" to the absence of boys is evidenced by the fact that in the current contests the females have only once been able to outnumber the males in attendance. The school is fortunate in having at its helm a superintendent who is thoroughly in earnest in endeavor to produce the highest type of manhood and womanhood out of his pupils.

Epworth League.—Last Monday evening a very interesting paper on China was read by Mr. Watson, a member of the Metropolitan League. It was much enjoyed.

Victoria West.

Epworth League.—Dr. Raynor held his audience with rapid attention last Monday evening while he spoke on missionary work, a topic so close to his own heart and prominent in his experience. Next Monday afternoon, and evening will be spent by the league at Macaulay Point in social pastime.

W. M. S.—The Women's Missionary Society will meet in the church on Wednesday next at 3 o'clock.

Sunday Services.—The pastor will preach to-morrow morning on "Power Over Sin," and in the evening on "The Price of a Birthright."

District Meeting.—The financial district meeting of the Victoria Methodist district was held Tuesday in the Victoria West Methodist church, the following being present: Rev. T. E. Holling and Messrs. Bailey, Building, H. Macdonald and Sargent from the Metropolitan church; Rev. A. Henderson and R. Beard from Centennial church; Rev. J. A. Wood and Charles Brown, Victoria West church; Rev. A. N. Miller and F. W. Davey, James Bay church; Rev. T. Keyworth and J. S. Macdonald, Esquimalt church; Rev. G. W. Dean, Salt Spring Island; Rev. B. Black and G. Bartlett, Shawnigan; Rev. A. Kato, Japanese mission. Rev. T. E. Holling, chairman of the district, presided. Rev. T. Keyworth was elected recording secretary and Rev. J. A. Wood financial secretary. The various missions on the district, home, Indian and Oriental were reviewed and grants from the missionary society were recommended in each case. Arrangements were made for having a missionary campaign in the district during the month of October. College interests and Sunday school work were also brought under review. A very profitable discussion on the relation of the young to the church took place. A complimentary resolution regarding Rev. A. J. Brace and wife, who shortly leave for China, was passed unanimously. Testimony was borne to the great and good work they have done during their residence in this city and the district meeting wished them God speed in their departure to West China.
